Secretary Hoover proposes a system
of inland waterways totaling 10,000 miles in length. If he puts that plan through, and makes the canals real,
with real water, he will have rendered
a service to this country equal to Roosevelt's digging of the Panama canal, even greater, for the flying machine has diminished the canal's importance.

To keep and use, for navigation irrigation and power, the waters that now rush, wasted, to the ocean, flooding vast districts, carrying rich soil
out to sea, is a task worthy of the greatest ability and patriotism.

Secretary Hoover is said to have great influence with the president. Between them, if they choose, they can have their names "writ in water" in a way that will outlast stone or bronze.

You are informed that Britain, at the league of nations' navy conference, means to regain her job as mistress of the world's oceans and seas.
The 5-5-3 battleship ratio, arranged at Washington when this nation's "statesmen" consented to scrap our new and half-finished battleships, was a makeshift, to hold us back, while Britain
regained her financial breath.

Britain has real statesmen. Give them time and they will get for Britain what she wants. However, she is welcome to the big floating fleet, to protect her commercial navy.

What we need is command of the air. We shall never get it from our army and navy gentlemen, whose ideas fly no higher than a rooster's.
But commercial flying machines, that interest the Fords and the Rockefellers, and that Henry Ford is building,
can be transformed into effective fighting airplanes in three hours.

The faculty of Ohio's State university is not guilty of teaching communism, or other "red radicalism," to tender undergraduate minds. Investigation proves it. Very comforting to those that see things behind them on the stairs and believe you can kill an idea, good or bad, by saying nothing about it.

There is no danger in communistic talk here, where there is enough for

Art Ever Present, Is Every Man's Wealth

Art is your constant and subtle companion. It is always with you, but you must recognize it. It is in everything you do, but you must find it. It is in the world about you, but you must look for it. Nature is the greatest work of art. It is for you, but you and you alone
have the power to make yourself
enjoy it. Consciously or unconsciously it means your happiness.
Art is God's greatest gift to man;
it was made to please the mind.

We have a booklet that will help
you to understand art and the happiness it brings. It will show you the value of art. It will open new gates to contentment and recreation.
It is called "The New Art

Only One Local Shows
Any Sentiment for Proposal

COMMITTEE HEARD

Defer Action on Transfer of Market House
Fund.

Trades and Labor Council,
representing all branches of organized labor in the district,
went on record last night
against the proposed daylight
savings in East Liverpool.
Upon roll call, all subordinate unions except one voted against the plan to turn the clock ahead one hour during the period from April to October. Delegates from one local reported their members divided on the proposal.

Solons Oppose Plan.
T. T. Jones, Joseph Dickey, John
Fowler and Vincent McGeehan, representing the Industrial Baseball league, asked approval of the plan. Principal spokesmen for the committee were Jones and Dickey, who pointed out that daylight savings would cost seventeen and nine-tenths cents more in the Industrial Baseball league.

Opponents of the proposal declared that the workman now goes to his place of employment in the dark and moving the clock ahead would not change conditions during the summer months.

The plan was submitted to Trades Council at a previous meeting and sent back to the subordinate unions for discussion. Roll call was taken by local, the vote being virtually unanimous against it.

The opinion today was that labor's action means the death of the proposal. The Chamber of Commerce is on record as favoring the change, but the city council, which must approve it in order to bring about its adoption as city time, is said to be opposed to the idea.

Market House Fund Discussion.
Five members of the municipal legislative body, headed by Thomas Far-rall, a member of Trades council, attended the meeting to seek labor's approval of a plan to transfer the $38,000 balance in the market house
fund to a proposed city hall fund.

Councilmen Farrall, O. J. Herrington, George Hughes, Edgar Heddleston
and C. A. Goodballet voiced themselves as favoring the proposal. Inasmuch as the fund was created by a vote of the people, sanction of the electorate
would be necessary to use the money
for any purpose other than for which the bonds were issued.

Several labor delegates, admitting that $38,000 would be insufficient to purchase a site and erect a suitable building, expressed the opinion that the money should be kept intact and used as the nucleus of a larger fund.

Breakstone Suits Against Insurance Companies Settled

Suits to recover insurance from 12
companies which had been filed in common pleas court, Lisbon, by Samuel Breakstone, after the fire, which destroyed the National Wholesale Millinery company's store in the Milligan building on February 23, last,
have been settled out of court. Suits against other companies are pending.

Insurance companies holding policies for Breakstone's stock of merchandise failed to adjust the losses,
according to the suits filed by his attorneys. Cost in the case are charged against the plaintiff, according to the journal entry.

ident of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, will practice law in Columbus.

its customers would disappear," H. M.
Cattell, vice president and treasurer of the Kiwanis club at a noon luncheon in the Larkins' annex.

C. C. Cline presided at the meeting.
The singing was led by Prof. Hugh F.
Laughlin, with Clair Chambers as accompanist.

The club accepted the invitation of the Lions' club to cooperate in the promotion of a "Safety First" campaign. The Kiwanians will be represented by the public affairs committee. The joint committee will meet

pany.

DUFFY TO QUIT OHIO BOARD ON FEB. 15; WILL PRACTICE LAW

East Liverpool Man
Leaves Industrial Commission.

Four Democrats are Mentioned to Fill
Place.

Thomas J. Duffy, of East Liverpool, former president of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters and chairman of the state industrial commission, will leave public office on
Feb. 15 to enter the practice of law in the state capital, it was announced today at Columbus.

Duffy, whose decision to retire is prompted by his wish to establish a permanent business instead of depending upon the uncertainties of political life, has been identified with the state board since 1911, when he resigned
as leader of the pottery employees union. He is a Democrat, and a member of this party will be appointed by Gov. A. V. Donahey to fill the vacancy.

Chairman Duffy has been on the commission from the time the workmen's compensation fund was created until the fund has grown to $48,000,000. The salary of the office
was fixed at $5,000 when the commission was formed and has never been increased.

Regrets Resignation
In tendering his resignation to Gov.
Donahey, Duffy, wrote that "it is with a deep feeling of regret that I take this step."

"My interest in the development and administration of the Ohio workmen's compensation law," he said in his letter, "has been so intense that I cannot separate myself from it without a feeling of genuine sorrow. But the years are rapidly going by and the most expensive part of the training
and education of my six children is yet before me. Under such circumstances one cannot look to the future with a feeling of confidence, when his means of livelihood depend upon the variable winds of political life."

"My tenure of office has been much longer than that of the average public official, simply because my terms of office expired while the political party to which I belong, was in power. But I know the fate that awaits me, sooner or later, if I attempt to continue in office."

"Therefore, I feel that in justice to my family, I should now endeavor to establish myself in some permanent business while I yet possess the strength and energy to do it, and not wait to be turned out of office when age has made it difficult and perhaps impossible for me successfully to take up anything else."

"I am sincerely grateful for having had the honor of serving the people of Ohio as a member of the industrial commission and if I have acquired any experience in that capacity that can be used at any time in behalf of the workmen's compensation law, I assure you that, as a private citizen,
I will readily and gladly give it."

Body Probably Will be

Burial.

William H. Phillips, 61, retired pottery manufacturer, died in Cannes, France, where he had been visiting since last fall, Tuesday, according to a cablegram received last night by Attorney W. H. Vodrey.

Mr. Phillips, accompanied by his wife, went to Europe last September in hopes that the change of climate would benefit his health. His condition, however, had not been serious and plans were being made, according to the last letter received by local friends, to sail for the United States on January 19. His death was attributed to a complication of diseases.

He was born in Springfield, Ohio,
May 7, 1865, a son of Howard J. and Maria Thompson Phillips. His parents moved to Cincinnati when he was a youth. He remained in Cincinnati until 1895 when he came to East Liverpool, purchasing the interest of Joseph Smith in the Smith Music company, Washington street.

With Wilson F. Smith as his partner, the name of the store was changed to the Smith & Phillips Music company. For six years Mr. Phillips was active in the business.

THREE BODIES FOUND AS RESCUERS BATTLE BLAZE AT HORNING PA.

With Hope Abandoned for Lives of Men Imprisoned in Shaft, All Efforts are Directed to Extinguishing Fire in Mine No. 4 of Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company.

FOREMAN AND ANOTHER MAN ESCAPE UNAIDED WHEN EXPLOSION OCCURS

Begin Work on Safety Wall When Second Blast Threatens Lives of About 30 Volunteers Who Enter Flaming Underground Passage in Search For Bodies of Victims.

By THOMAS E. BROOKS
HORNING, Pa., Feb. 4.—With hope abandoned for the rescue alive of 17 men entombed following an explosion in Horning mine No. 4 of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company, all efforts were directed today to extinguishing the blaze raging in the shaft in the hope that the bodies may be recovered.
Three bodies have been recovered from the drift, those of John Petrovitch, cutter, Louis Christian, and a third body believed to be that of Thomas Piccolo.

The condition of the three bodies recovered was such that identification was next to impossible. It was at first believed that the body of Reis Bradburn, night boss, was one of the three removed from the mine, but later relatives of Piccolo identified the body.

Two men, Edward Travis, foreman, and Louis Howell, who were in the shaft at the time of the explosion, escaped unaided.

Rescue crews under the direction of John S. Bell, John I.
Pratt and P. J. Callahan, state mine inspectors, are building a safety wall about 500 feet from the scene of the first explosion in an effort to smother the flames.

Two Men Collapse.

This was decided upon at midnight when a second explosion threatened the lives of about 30 rescue workers.
William Ivill, superintendent of No. 3 mine, and Matthews Blair, superintendent of No. 8 mine, collapsed after the second explosion and are in a serious condition.

Rescue crews from the Pittsburgh coal company, the H. C. Frick Coal and Coke company, United States mine rescue bureau, Safety Appliance Corporation and crews from mines Nos. 2, 3 and 8, are at work in the shaft.

Fire originally broke out in butt 15, about 4,000 feet from the face of the mine, probably caused by a spark from a cutting machine igniting dust and gas. All miners were ordered out of this section and fire crews sent in to fight the blaze which was not considered serious at the time.

After they had constructed a safety wall in front of the fire, it was believed that the blaze was under control, but a few minutes later another explosion occurred. Mine officials believe an accumulation of gas behind the wall caused the explosion.

President D. E. Tuttle, of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company, declared this morning that the real heroes of the fire were the 21 men who braved the dangers of the burning mine, 19 of whom are believed to have lost their lives.

Two Killed, Six Hurt And 40 Buried as Building Collapses

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Feb. 4.—Two men are dead, six others so seriously injured that they may die and at least 40 other persons are buried in the ruins of the North and Judd Manufacturing company today building which collapsed this afternoon under the weight of snow on its roof.

The entire New Britain fire department was called out. They immediately began digging into the ruins, seeking either to save lives or to recover bodies.

Officials of the North and Judd company are being rounded by city officials in an effort to secure an approximate idea of how many were in the plant when the crash occurred. An estimate place this number from 40 to 60.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4.—Eastern Pennsylvania and adjoining sections of New Jersey were in the grip of the worst snow and sleet storm of the winter today.

A small-sized blizzard was raging in this vicinity this morning. It consisted of sleet and snow, and was accompanied by a strong northeast wind.
More than 4,000 men were shoveling snow from Philadelphia streets.

Snow plows were put into action by the state highway department to clear away a six-inch fall in the Susquehanna valley.

NOTICE KILNMEIN!

ning, Feb. 5. Full attendance requested.
PRESIDENT.

TWO ARE KNOWN DEAD AND SIX OTHERS MISSING AS WORST BLIZZARD OF WINTER SWEEPS ENTIRE ATLANTIC COAST; EASTERN CITIES SUFFER

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The worst
blizzard of the winter was today
sweeping the entire Atlantic coast.
Four inches of snow had fallen here early today and the weather forecast estimated that another two inches would fall before the storm is over.

Two men are known dead in the metropolitan area and six others who were aboard barges which were torn away from their tows during the storm, are missing. When complete

reports come in from craft caught at sea it is feared the death toll may be higher.

Five thousand men were employed
on the streets of New York all night, clearing them of snow in an effort to keep traffic moving. Early today
10,000 more men were called out.

Property Damage Great.
The damage, it is feared, will be great. All train service has been greatly delayed. Ferries were 15 minutes and more behind their schedules because of ice blocking the slips.

The six men who are missing were
on the barges Phoenix and Vapor,
which were torn loose from the tow-boat Thomas Howard off Asbury park last night. The Vapor was seen to sink. The Phoenix was later found, pounding to pieces on the beach. No trace of the six men, three on each barge, was found and it is feared they perished.

George Quilan, a retired captain of the fire department, was found dead
in the snow in front of his home in Jersey City.

Peter Keane, 67, was found dead at the entrance to a lodging house here.

Four Great Actors In Screen Drama At the American

One of the greatest casts of actors ever assembled appears in First National's forthcoming production, "Fine Clothes," to be shown at the American theatre three days, commencing Thursday.

There are only four male roles in the picture, and each is portrayed by a veteran of the stage and screen, the quartette including Lewis S. Stone, Percy Marmont, Raymond Griffith and William V. Mong.

Stone, who plays the part of the Earl of Denham, has been on the stage since 1901, when he made his first hit in "The Mistletoe." He continued his work on the legitimate stage until 1915 when Thomas H. Ince gave him one of the leading roles in "Honor's Altar." Since that time he has never left the screen, and during his ten years in motion pictures has built up a reputation for being one of the finest actors in the industry.

Marmont's stage career started at the age of eight, when he played Charles Darnley in "The Tale of Two Cities." From that time till 1918 he played on the London stage in Shakespearean, Galsworthy and Massfield plays. His first smashing success in pictures came in his interpretation of Mark Saber in "If Winter Comes." Since, he has played in many successes, including "The Clean Heart," "The Light That Failed" and "Daddy Goes A-Hunting."

Although Griffith is the youngest member of the four he has been an actor as long as any. His first role was when he was only 15 months old. Since then he has been in the profession in some phase or another continuously; has played "Little Lord Fauntleroy," a girl in "Ten Nights in a Barroom," belonged to a French pantomime troupe, toured the United States with a circus and before acting in pictures was a comedy director and writer.

Mong, the fourth of the quartette, is a playwright as well as an actor. Before entering pictures he was on the stage for eighteen years. He has played in many successes, including the screen version of his own play, "The Clay Baker," "The Connecticut Yankee," "Thy Name is Woman" and "Excuse Me."

In humid Georgetown, British Guiana, are less than sixty electric fans.

Bernhard Baron, a tobacco king of England, has given $1,000,000 to hospitals within the past year.

It has been estimated that one day's fog in London causes a loss of $1,750,000.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1926.

T. J. Duffy Leaves State Office

Press dispatches today confirm The Review-Tribune's announcement early in the week that Thomas J. Duffy, of East Liverpool, chairman of the state industrial commission, will resign February 15 to enter the practice of law in Columbus. In his letter of resignation, forwarded to Gov. A. V. Donahey, he says, "I feel that in justice to my family, I should now endeavor to establish myself in some permanent business while I yet possess the strength and energy to do it, and not wait to be turned out of office when age has made it difficult and perhaps impossible for me successfully to take up anything else."

Duffy's retirement marks the end of a 15-year career in public life—a tenure of office much longer than that of the average public official. And his administration of the duties of membership on the industrial commission, of which he has been chairman for several years, has been one of honor to the state and himself.

The East Liverpool man stepped from the presidency of the National Brotherhood of Operative Pottery, after serving with distinction for several years, to a place on the old board of awards in 1911, thanks to an appointment by Gov. Judson Harmon. When the board was abolished and the industrial commission created, Duffy was chosen for the four-year term by Gov. James M. Cox in 1913, and was re-appointed for the six-year term in 1917. In 1922 he was defeated for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by Gov. Donahey, only to be re-appointed to membership on the commission again in 1923. His term would expire in 1926. During his tenure, he studied law and was admitted to practice a few years ago. He has made repeated efforts to resign in the last two years, but Gov. Donahey and other friends urged him to retain the place.

He is a self-made man in every sense of the term. When a boy he worked in the Wheeling, W. Va., potteries, shouldering the burdens of head of the family when his father died. His ability soon attracted wide attention in the labor movement in which he was active. And at an early age he was elected secretary of the pottery workers' parent organization, serving under the administration of the late A. S. Hughes, for many years leader of the Brotherhood. Upon his death, Duffy was elected president.

He is admirably equipped for the duties of the legal profession. He has a keen mind, a broad knowledge of law and is an excellent orator. He should attain the high place in the legal profession that his exemplary life merits. And his East Liverpool friends join with his legion of acquaintances throughout Ohio in wishing him success.

Healthful Competition

It isn't necessary to poke fun at the Russian Soviet government for inviting a limited amount of private enterprise, in order to improve Communist business methods for forced competition. True, it is just as effective recognition of the principle of competition as if the Communists had thrown up their hands and turned everything over to competitive capitalism. But it is exactly what big private business is doing increasingly in this country.

Look how the tobacco and oil trusts have prospered since their dissolution by the government some years ago. Almost every one of their constituent elements alone has made more money than it did as part of a monopolistic organization.

One way of looking at this fact, and the usual way, has been to say that the trusts were not really "busted"—that their dissolution was only technical, and the component parts still operated practically as one system. There has been a good deal of that, no doubt, in the form of "gentlemen's agreements" and voluntary price-fixing and following the leader in the matter of prices. But along with this there has been a surprising amount of competition, resulting not only from the natural efforts of different organizations to make a good showing, but evidently from higher-up policy.

Competition, even in such a situation, proves itself "the life of trade," stimulating friendly rivalry of personnel, and promoting efficiency. Different brands of tobacco or gasoline often compete vigorously with each other, when the ultimate ownership and control is the same, to the profit of both brands.

The same thing is seen now in the automobile industry. Look at the different makes of cars competing for the market, produced by the same manufacturer. Each car is better for it, and each organization.

What pedestrians need is individual helicopters, to be carried like umbrellas, with which they could soar right up into the air to dodge an automobile.

Another thing that we got out of the war—expensive tastes.

This new-fangled campaign against noise won't work. Americans get too lonesome when it's quiet.

No, those floods in Flanders positively do not make British Tommies homesick for the war.

Diplomatic circles are wondering why Mussolini lets Vesuvius erupt.

Foreign nations are borrowing our money to buy our oil to save their own, expecting to sell us their at monopolistic prices when ours is gone.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Ossining slivers when the Sing Sing siren sounds its shrill blast. Somewhere in the neighborhood is an escaped prisoner—usually desperate. In the outlying districts there are those who put food out at their doors in hope they will not be disturbed.

In the gloomy, gray prison the reaction to escape is not pleasant. It means the tightening of freedom and the curtailment of liberties. And if the prisoner is found and returned he is shunned. Most of the prison breaks are discovered around dusk at the evening line-up.

Frequently the siren means just another hide-out. A wretched inmate has secreted himself somewhere within the prison walls in defiance of consequence and inspired by a reckless faith for the more propitious moment for a complete get-away.

The hide-out is rarely if ever successful at Sing Sing. He has merely shorn himself of good behavior time off and invited the dungeon. When the siren sounds all roads to Ossining are patrolled by man hunters in groups and armed to kill.

The reward incites many to join the hunt but there is that touch in Ossining as in all humanity that hopes the prisoner once outside the walls will make good his escape. Otherwise honest men and women will often lend aid of pure sympathy.

A pall of gloom also falls over the neighborhood at the midnight electricutions just as it does in the prison. Inmates with gruesome humor refer to the death house as "the hanging garden." But their sleep is fitful and not until the guard nods affirmatively to their whispered query "Is it over?" does the prison sleep.

Outside the prison gates clot men and women impelled by an odd curiosity about death. They will stand for hours in the wind and rain merely to see the solemn electrocutioner depart in his car—the signal that the ghastly job is finished.

As prisons go, Old Ludlow was perhaps the most popular in the world. It was the detention house of the famous Alimony club—husbands who prefer the rather slight restrictions to paying out weekly alimony. Many scandals have resulted from men, supposed to be in their cells, being seen in the full effluence of the Broadway night with amiable guards. In New York there was not an iota of stigma attached to a term in Ludlow. Some of the leading society men, authors, playwrights, writers, physicians and lawyers have served a sentence there. One was permitted to converse, stroll in a roomy courtyard, play games, send out for choice meals and wear regular clothes. Ludlow is to be torn down.

I occasionally have dinner with a man who spent eight years in prison for forgery. He has, since his release, an eighteen year record for sobriety and honesty. He is successful. His wife knows his past and so does his daughter. Also people in his employ. He says he came out of prison improved in mind and body. He scotches the belief that prisoners are hounded. So far as he knows nothing was put in his way to prevent him from a useful career. Perhaps his own attitude may have something to do with it. He said: "I paid a just debt to society and I took my lesson seriously. I know a man simply cannot be happy if he is crooked."

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Kentucky's Niagara.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 4.—Whether hydro-electric development in the Kentucky mountains shall silence forever the thunder of Cumberland Falls is a question before the Federal Power Commission. Its discussion has brought to general notice a cataract, second in size to Niagara in the area east of the Mississippi, and until recently was almost unknown save to readers of reference books.

It is so inaccessible that few Kentuckians, comparatively, have seen it. A thin stream of patrons of a summer hotel at the falls had trickled into the picturesque gorge of Cumberland river for almost a century, but to mention the falls in Louisville or Lexington is to find that scarcely anyone there has witnessed the plunge of the Cumberland over a ledge 68 feet from the level of the pool below it, and perhaps 120 feet above the hollowed bottom of the pool.

Cumberland river is 688 miles long. Between Nashville, Tennessee, and its entrance into the Ohio in Kentucky it is navigable the year round as a result of locks and dams. On the upper river within the boundaries of Kentucky it is navigable only in winter and spring save for 30 miles between Burnside, on the Southern railway line from Cincinnati to Chattanooga, and Palace. The so-called Palace Pool, made by the single lock that has been built in Kentucky's section of the river, is navigable at all times. During summer, when only batteaux or canoes can be used between Palace and the Tennessee line, the Palace Pool holds impounded a small fleet of steamers which ply between the lock and the railroad, loaded with poultry and other farm produce from a section which the pool has developed by providing an outlet to markets.

The Cumberland's headwaters are in Looney creek, which flows through the mining town of Lynch, in Harlan county, Kentucky, about 2,000 feet above sea level. The Cumberland's mouth, after it runs a serpentine course through Tennessee, is in McCracken county, Kentucky, near Paducah. The river, when developed for black water navigation between Nashville and Palace, will open to markets the produce of a group of contiguous Kentucky counties which are without railroads or improved highways and whose riches consist of fertile soil.

Because of a federal law under which power dams in non-navigable sections of partly navigable streams may not be built without a permit from the Federal Power Commission save at the risk that their removal, or disuse, will be forced by the federal government in the interest of navigation, it is necessary for the company which wishes to build dams below and above Cumberland Falls to secure the consent of the Federal Commission.

When an Indianapolis corporation procured an option on the Cumberland Falls tract, of 2,400 acres, Kentucky had no State Park Commission. No movement looking to the creation of state parks had been inaugurated.

A State Park Commission was created by an act of the legislature. It was authorized to accept donations of areas suitable for reservation as state park. No money for purchasing land was provided. Under the law the state geologist was made chairman of the commission. The state geologist, Dr. Willard Rouse Jilison, published a book describing areas he deemed especially suitable for preservation as recreation ground. He included Cumberland Falls and said that its destruction by a power dam would be hardly less than tragedy.

Newspapers quoted Dr. Jilison's book. Advocates of conservation in Kentucky and elsewhere became interested. Champions of Cumberland Falls, most of whom never had seen the cataract, began pelting the Federal Power Commission with protests against a projected dam which would halt the stream above the falls and convey its waters through a flume along the mountain side to a point below the falls where they would generate power that would be transmitted to points outside of Kentucky, and used also, possibly, by plants, not now in existence, in the Cumberland Falls region.

Neither the members of the Federal Power Commission nor the executive secretary of that body, O. O. Merrill, had seen Cumberland Falls. Very few of the Kentucky editors who discussed the impending dam construction, had seen the falls. Among those who were interested but who had not visited Cumberland Falls, was Tom Wallace, chief of the editorial staff of the Louisville Times, for many years an ardent advocate of forest conservation and fish and game conservation and interested in recent years in state parks.

Mr. Wallace, when the controversy as to the probable value of Cumberland Falls as recreation ground or as a power-maker, waxed warm, paid a visit to the falls and returned committed unreservedly to the view that a state park with the falls as its major attraction, including within its boundaries the wild gorge of the Cumberland, rich in a varied native flora, would be worth more to Kentucky than a dozen power dams.

Governor Against Power Project. Governor Fields, of Kentucky, has pledged himself to fight for the preservation of Cumberland Falls. Sundry conservation leaders who sympathize with Governor Fields have begun a new pelting of the Federal Power Commission.

Mr. Wallace, who came to Washington to see Mr. Merrill, executive secretary of the Federal Power Commission, and to invite the attention of the National Conference on Outdoor Recreation to the Cumberland Falls problem, expresses the opinion that there will be no power dam above the falls if Kentucky, or any organization in Kentucky, or elsewhere, can convince the Federal Power Commission that it will acquire the money with which to buy the tract now optioned to the Indianapolis corporation.

That an appropriation could be procured from the Kentucky legislature is not believed probable, but champions of conservation are proceeding with the hope of finding a way to raise the funds if they can convince the Federal Commission that Cumberland Falls and the Cumberland Gorge as a recreational area would be so valuable to Kentucky, in the course of time, that to permit a power dam to be built where it would obliterate the falls would be vandalism.

Balmwort Brought Lasting Relief

INWOOD PARK, L. I., N. Y.: Daniel M. Wert, 9 Maple Road, writes: "I am a carpenter and most of my work is outside. Am 60 years old and I have had trouble with my kidneys and back since I was in my teens for 3 years before I got any relief. My landlady then told me about Balmwort tablets from which she had found relief. I have used 3 boxes and am feeling fine—no trouble the last 6 months. I used to get out of bed at 6 a.m. 7 times a night and could never lie on my back. I would have a scanty flow, followed by a burning and often a profuse flow with chills, etc."

Sulphurb Cleared Up Skin Trouble

MOBERLY, MO.: Miss M. A. Brower, Lock Box 572, writes: "I saw your 'Answers to Health Questions' in the St. Louis Post Dispatch and a case similar to mine. Itching skin, rash and blotches, and procured a box of Sulphurb tablets at once. Have taken 4 packages and there is a wonderful change. For itching, rash and blotches have disappeared."

SIXTY-SIX.

Early in the evening, more than one guest at the Harwood ball remarked about the fact that Harry Yancey was not to be seen around Noble. It was strange, they thought, that the attorney was not playing his usual prominent part in whatever Noble Harwood undertook. What had happened? Had Noble jealously relegated his cronies to the background, or had Harry, with unusual appropriateness, faded into insignificance of his own accord? It was something to talk about, anyway. The greeting given Mr. and Mrs. Harry Yancey when they arrived had been conventional. Noble had merely nodded to his friend as he shook hands. But a moment or two later he had managed to excuse himself from the receiving line and draw Harry into a private corner and whisper: "Where is she?" "I left her out at the lodge, good and drunk." Noble frowned. "Are you sure she won't wake up in time to er— cause some trouble?" "No chance; she is locked in." Mopping his brow, Noble went back to his wife and daughter. If only Yancey had gone to New York and headed off Lorraine Holly. Harry Yancey, after parting with Noble, went out on the lawn and lit a cigarette. He was hatless, but he had his Bedouin's cloak about him and did not feel the sharpness of the air. When he was sure he was not being observed, he walked back to the kitchen of the house, with which he was very well familiar. In the butler's office there was, he knew, a phone, which, with the door closed, would permit him to talk unheard. Louis was occupied elsewhere and he got in without being seen. Latching the door, he laid off his cloak, perspiring, took up the phone and called a room at the Grand Hotel.

"Hello, Miss H.? . . . This is Y. you know. Yes. Listen closely, for I'm not going to talk very long. I said, listen closely, for I am not going to talk very long. You understand?" "Oh, Lord, he thought, how can a woman be so dumb. "Yes," he went on, "everything is as I told you it would be. The old boy is up in the air. Now, listen. You're to do exactly as I told you. No rough stuff, and don't miss any of your cues. You're to let him see you, but at the moment when I can grab you and take you out. Yes. You're sure you understand?" Harry Yancey had gone over this role with Lorraine Holly many times, but he still had his doubts about her ability to play it. He was a little sorry because of her "dumbness."

"Time yourself carefully," he went on. "The main entrance. Use the invitation I gave you. Let me remind you again, girlie, that he's the big boss in this town, and that if you make any slips and break any glasses, he can do you a powerful lot of harm. And he will. He's that kind."

Harry Yancey's plan was simple. He was going to scare Noble and garner some easy money for himself. At the eleventh hour, he would seize Lorraine and take her away from the ball, as she was about to throw herself into Noble's arms, and manage to get a big check from the millionaire which he would split half way and possibly two shares for himself.

He had lost some of his original confidence in the plan, originally conceived in a spirit of revenge, and he was a little doubtful of its success, because of the low intelligence of the woman—what in the world Noble had ever seen in her he didn't know—but with himself in the mess, he had to get out. Having wired her, and got her to Central City, he had to get her out of town without her really doing any damage to Noble.

Carefully readjusting his cloak, and putting his mask on hand, he went back around the house, and sought his wife upon the floor.

"Where in the devil have you been?" she greeted him. "What in the devil do you mean leaving me standing here like a fool?"

Harry shrugged as he swung her into a dance.

In room 756 of the Grand Hotel, Lorraine Holly, dancer, surveyed herself for a seventh time in the mirror, and carefully readjusted her costume. She turned toward the door, and, for the fourth time, paused as she was about to open it, to return to a bottle which reposed in a drawer in the dresser.

All Hymns in Book

Sung in Single Service

Redlands, Cal.—All the hymns in the standard hymn book of the Methodist Episcopal church were read, recited or sung in the Methodist Episcopal church at Yucalpa during an eleven-hour period. A total of 748 hymns were used in the service. Walter Fritts, Redlands high school student, recited 37 hymns. About 100 persons participated in the service. Each family in the congregation had been assigned ten hymns.

SHE WAS AFRAID TO SLEEP

"For a year I was afraid to sleep because gas (from stomach) collected around my heart. Now I take Adierka once a week and have not been bothered since." (signed) Mrs. E. Cole. Adierka removes gas in TEN minutes and brings out old waste matter you never thought was in your system. It is such an excellent intestinal evacuant that it is wonderful for constipation and allied stomach trouble. Stops that full, bloated feeling and makes you happy and cheerful. No matter what you have tried the REAL action of Adierka will surprise you. J. D. Holloway, Druggist, in Wellsville by Fred A. Musser.

Human Engine Need Repairs

When you start on a journey, do you ever stop to think about the vast amount of work that had to be done on the engine that pulls the train and makes it possible for you to go? It must be working properly in every detail because if it isn't, you cannot take the trip. It must be inspected thorough before each trip for if any little thing is amiss the results may be dangerous.

The human body is very much like the engine for if you wish to take your trip through life in safety you must have each part working properly. Mr. Fred Jackson, 312 Morris street, Charleston, W. Va., who has been employed by the New York Central railroad for eight years, found that his body was running behind schedule so he went into the shop for repairs.

He says: "I had reached the place where I realized something must be done. For ten years I suffered with indigestion and kidney trouble. I saw Kad-ik advertised and I thought perhaps it was just what I needed. It proved to be just the remedy I needed to build me up and I gratefully recommend it to my friends. Get a bottle today and give it a fair trial and you will be surprised how quickly it works. Kad-ik is sold in East Liverpool at Mathews' Cut Rate Store and other drug stores."

Now You Can End Constipation In 10 Days or Less

Mean the Chronic Kind—The Habitual Kind That Calls for Daily Purgings—Guaranteed, Too.

Now what do you think, good folks? Remember we told you the other day in this paper about McCoy's Rinolin and how in ten days it would conquer the most stubborn kind of constipation and after that the bowels would function normally and regularly.

Remember how we invited all who wanted to get rid of constipation and that vicious habit of taking salts and violent cathartics to go to C. G. Anderson or Mathews' Medicine Store, or any drug store and get a bottle of Rinolin with the distinct understanding that it would do just what we said it would do or money back.

A whole lot of people must read this paper, because hardly before the ink is dry on our notice of invitation druggists in this city and towns nearby commenced to have a brick demand for this effective Emulsion.

And the best of all—according to the druggists—everyone who bought seems satisfied and of course they are, for McCoy's Rinolin was tried on thousands of slaves of habitual constipation before it was offered direct thru druggists to the people. And how do you thing it established regular bowel movements? The answer is simple; it overcomes the chronic condition by thoroughly cleaning the walls of the intestines of all accumulated deposits and toxins which prevented active and normal peristalsis—no other preparations have been able to do this.

Besides that—it lubricated and put tone into the entire intestinal track so that it will be many a day before these now happy people will think of purgatives again.

Without active peristalsis, the bowels cannot function properly—McCoy's Rinolin increases the peristaltic action. Rinolin tonight—Pep tomorrow.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1926.

T. J. Duffy Leaves State Office

Press dispatches today confirm The Review-Tribune's announcement early in the week that Thomas J. Duffy, of East Liverpool, chairman of the state industrial commission, will resign February 15 to enter the practice of law in Columbus. In his letter of resignation, forwarded to Gov. A. V. Donahey, he says, "I feel that in justice to my family, I should now endeavor to establish myself in some permanent business while I yet possess the strength and energy to do it, and not wait to be turned out of office when age has made it difficult and perhaps impossible for me successfully to take up anything else."

Duffy's retirement marks the end of a 15-year career in public life—a tenure of office much longer than that of the average public official. And his administration of the duties of membership on the industrial commission, of which he has been chairman for several years, has been one of honor to the state and himself.

The East Liverpool man stepped from the presidency of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, after serving with distinction for several years, to a place on the old board of awards in 1911, thanks to an appointment by Gov. Judson Harmon. When the board was abolished and the industrial commission created, Duffy was chosen for the four-year term by Gov. James M. Cox in 1913, and was re-appointed for the six-year term in 1917. In 1922 he was defeated for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by Gov. Donahey, only to be re-appointed to membership on the commission again in 1923. His term would expire in 1926. During his tenure, he studied law and was admitted to practice a few years ago. He has made repeated efforts to resign in the last two years, but Gov. Donahey and other friends urged him to retain the place.

He is a self-made man in every sense of the term. When a boy he worked in the Wheeling, W. Va., potteries, shouldering the burdens of head of the family when his father died. His ability soon attracted wide attention in the labor movement in which he was active. And at an early age he was elected secretary of the pottery workers' parent organization, serving under the administration of the late A. S. Hughes, for many years leader of the Brotherhood. Upon his death, Duffy was elected president.

He is admirably equipped for the duties of the legal profession. He has a keen mind, a broad knowledge of law and is an excellent orator. He should attain the high place in the legal profession that his exemplary life merits. And his East Liverpool friends join with his legion of acquaintances throughout Ohio in wishing him success.

Healthful Competition

It isn't necessary to poke fun at the Russian Soviet government for inviting a limited amount of private enterprise, in order to improve Communist business methods for forced competition. True, it is just as effective recognition of the principle of competition as if the Communists had thrown up their hands and turned everything over to competitive capitalism. But it is exactly what big private business is doing increasingly in this country.

Look how the tobacco and oil trusts have prospered since their dissolution by the government some years ago. Almost every one of their constituent elements alone has made more money than it did as part of a monopolistic organization.

One way of looking at this fact, and the usual way, has been to say that the trusts were not really "busted"—that their dissolution was only technical, and the component parts still operated practically as one system. There has been a good deal of that, no doubt, in the form of "gentlemen's agreements" and voluntary price-fixing and following the leader in the matter of prices. But along with this there has been a surprising amount of competition, resulting not only from the natural efforts of different organizations to make a good showing, but evidently from higher-up policy.

Competition, even in such a situation, proves itself "the life of trade," stimulating friendly rivalry of personnel, and promoting efficiency. Different brands of tobacco or gasoline often compete vigorously with each other, when the ultimate ownership and control is the same, to the profit of both brands.

The same thing is seen now in the automobile industry. Look at the different makes of cars competing for the market, produced by the same manufacturer. Each car is better for it, and each organization.

What pedestrians need is individual helicopters, to be carried like umbrellas, with which they could soar right up into the air to dodge an automobile.

Another thing that we got out of the war—expensive tastes.

This new-fangled campaign against noise won't work. Americans get too lonesome when it's quiet.

No, those floods in Flanders positively do not make British Tommies homesick for the war.

Diplomatic circles are wondering why Mussolini lets Vesuvius erupt.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Ossining shivers when the Sing Sing siren sounds its shrill blast. Somewhere in the neighborhood is an escaped prisoner—usually desperate. In the outlying districts there are those who put food out at their doors in hope they will not be disturbed.

In the gloomy, gray prison the reaction to escape is not pleasant. It means the tightening of freedom and the curtailment of liberties. And if the prisoner is found and returned he is shunned. Most of the prison breaks are discovered around dusk at the evening line-up.

Frequently the siren means just another hide-out. A wretched inmate has secreted himself somewhere within the prison walls in defiance of consequence and inspired by a reckless faith for the more propitious moment for a complete get-away.

The hide-out is rarely if ever successful at Sing Sing. He has merely shorn himself of good behavior time off and invited the dungeon. When the siren sounds all roads to Ossining are patrolled by man hunters in groups and armed to kill.

The reward incites many to join the hunt but there is that touch in Ossining as in all humanity that hopes the prisoner once outside the walls will make good his escape. Otherwise honest men and women will often lend aid out of pure sympathy.

A pall of gloom also falls over the neighborhood at the midnight electrocutions just as it does in the prison. Inmates with gruesome humor refer to the death house as "the hanging garden." But their sleep is fitful and not until the guard nods affirmatively to their whispered query "Is it over?" does the prison sleep.

Outside the prison gates clot men and women impelled by an odd curiosity about death. They will stand for hours in the wind and rain merely to see the solemn electrocutioner depart in his car—the signal that the ghastly job is finished.

As prisons go, Old Ludlow was perhaps the most popular in the world. It was the detention house of the famous Alimony club—husbands who prefer the rather slight restrictions to paying out weekly alimony. Many scandals have resulted from men, supposed to be in their cells, being seen in the full effluence of the Broadway night with amiable guards. In New York there was not an iota of stigma attached to a term in Ludlow. Some of the leading society men, authors, playwrights, writers, physicians and lawyers have served a sentence there. One was permitted to converse, stroll in a roomy courtyard, play games, send out for choice meals and wear regular clothes. Ludlow is to be torn down.

Hardened criminals take a short sentence lightly. A story is told of one sentenced to Sing Sing for two years. When his Moll came to tell him goodbye he said: "It's just a two year stretch up the river. Gee, I could do that on one ear."

I occasionally have dinner with a man who spent eight years in prison for forgery. He has, since his release, an eighteen year record for sobriety and honesty. He is successful. His wife knows his past and so does his daughter. Also people in his employ. He says he came out of prison improved in mind and body. He scotches the belief that prisoners are hounded. So far as he knows nothing was put in his way to prevent him from a useful career. Perhaps his own attitude may have something to do with it. He said: "I paid a just debt to society and I took my lesson seriously. I know a man simply cannot be happy if he is crooked."

There have been no fatal accidents on the Polish air line in 227,800 miles flown in three years.

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Kentucky's Niagara.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 4.—Whether hydro-electric development in the Kentucky mountains shall silence forever the thunder of Cumberland Falls is a question before the Federal Power Commission. Its discussion has brought to general notice a cataract, second in size to Niagara in the area east of the Mississippi, and until recently was almost unknown save to readers of reference books.

It is so inaccessible that few Kentuckians, comparatively, have seen it. A thin stream of patrons of a summer hotel at the falls had trickled into the picturesque gorge of the Cumberland river for almost a century, but to mention the falls in Louisville or Lexington is to find that scarcely anyone there has witnessed the plunge of the Cumberland over a ledge 68 feet from the level of the pool below it, and perhaps 120 feet above the hollowed bottom of the pool.

Cumberland river is 688 miles long. Between Nashville, Tennessee, and its entrance into the Ohio in Kentucky it is navigable the year round as a result of locks and dams. On the upper river within the boundaries of Kentucky it is navigable only in winter and spring save for 30 miles between Burnside, on the Southern railway line from Cincinnati to Chattanooga, and Paducah. The so-called Palace Pool, made by the single lock that has been built in Kentucky's section of the river, is navigable at all times.

During summer, when only bateaux or canoes can be used between Paducah and the Tennessee line, the Palace Pool holds impounded a small fleet of steamers which ply between the lock and the railroad, loaded with poultry and other farm produce from a section which the pool has developed by providing an outlet to markets.

The Cumberland's headwaters are in Looney creek, which flows through the mining town of Lynch, in Harlan county, Kentucky, about 2,000 feet above sea level. The Cumberland's mouth, after it runs a serpentine course through Tennessee, is in McCracken county, Kentucky, near Paducah. The river, when developed for slack water navigation between Nashville and Paducah, will open to markets the produce of a group of contiguous Kentucky counties which are without railroads or improved highways and whose riches consist of fertile soil.

Because of a federal law under which power dams in non-navigable sections of partly navigable streams may not be built without a permit from the Federal Power Commission save at the risk that their removal, or disuse, will be forced by the federal government in the interest of navigation, it is necessary for the company which wishes to build dams below and above Cumberland Falls to secure the consent of the Federal Commission.

Wanted as State Park. When an Indianapolis corporation procured an option on the Cumberland Falls tract, of 2,400 acres, Kentucky had no State Park Commission. No movement looking to the creation of state parks had been inaugurated.

A State Park Commission was created by an act of the legislature. It was authorized to accept donations of areas suitable for reservation as state park. No money for purchasing land was provided. Under the law the state geologist was made chairman of the commission. The state geologist, Dr. Willard Rouse Jilison, published a book describing areas he deemed especially suitable for preservation as recreation ground. He included Cumberland Falls and said that its destruction by a power dam would be hardly less than tragedy.

Newspapers quoted Dr. Jilison's book. Advocates of conservation in Kentucky and elsewhere became interested. Champions of Cumberland Falls, most of whom never had seen the cataract, began pelting the Federal Power Commission with protests against a projected dam which would halt the stream above the falls and convey its waters through a flume along the mountain side to a point below the falls where they would generate power that would be transmitted to points outside of Kentucky, and used also, possibly, by plants, not now in existence, in the Cumberland Falls region.

Neither the members of the Federal Power Commission nor the executive secretary of that body, O. O. Merrill, had seen Cumberland Falls. Very few of the Kentucky editors who discussed the impending dam construction, had seen the falls. Among those who were interested but who had not visited Cumberland Falls, was Tom Wallace, chief of the editorial staff of the Louisville Times, for many years an ardent advocate of forest conservation and fish and game conservation and interested in recent years in state parks.

Mr. Wallace, when the controversy as to the probable value of Cumberland Falls as recreation ground or as a power-maker, waxed warty, paid a visit to the falls and returned committed unreservedly to the view that a state park with the falls as its major attraction, including within its boundaries the wild gorge of the Cumberland, rich in a varied native flora, would be worth more to Kentucky than a dozen power dams.

Governor Against Power Project. Governor Fields, of Kentucky, has pledged himself to fight for the preservation of Cumberland Falls. Sundry conservation leaders who sympathize with Governor Fields have begun a new pelting of the Federal Power Commission.

Mr. Wallace, who came to Washington to see Mr. Merrill, executive secretary of the Federal Power Commission, and to invite the attention of the National Conference on Outdoor Recreation to the Cumberland Falls problem, expresses the opinion that there will be no power dam above the falls if Kentucky, or any organization in Kentucky, or elsewhere, can convince the Federal Power Commission that it will acquire the money with which to buy the tract now optioned to the Indianapolis corporation.

That an appropriation could be procured from the Kentucky legislature is not believed probable, but champions of conservation are proceeding with the hope of finding a way to raise the funds if they can convince the Federal Commission that Cumberland Falls and the Cumberland Gorge as a recreational area would be so valuable to Kentucky, in the course of time, that to permit a power dam to be built where it would obliterate the falls would be vandalism.

I have used 3 boxes and am feeling fine—no trouble the last 6 months. I used to have to get out of bed 4 and 7 times a night and could never lie on my back. SIXTY-SIX.

Early in the evening, more than one guest at the Harwood ball remarked about the fact that Harry Yancey was not to be seen around Noble. It was strange, they thought, that the attorney was not playing his usual prominent part in whatever Noble Harwood

undertook. What had happened? Had Noble jealously relegated his cronies to the background, or had Harry, with unusual appropriateness, faded into insignificance of his own accord? It was something to talk about, anyway. The greeting given Mr. and Mrs. Harry Yancey when they arrived had been conventional. Noble had merely nodded to his friend as he shook hands. But a moment or two later he had managed to excuse himself from the receiving line and draw Harry into a private corner and whisper: "Where is she?" "I left her out at the lodge, good and drunk." Noble frowned. "Are you sure she won't wake up in time to er— cause some trouble?" "No chance; she is locked in." Mopping his brow, Noble went back to his wife and daughter. If only Yancey had gone to New York and headed off Lorraine Holly. Harry Yancey, after parting with Noble, went out on the lawn and lit a cigarette. He was hatless, but he had his Bedouin's cloak about him and did not feel the sharpness of the air. When he was sure he was not being observed, he walked back to the kitchen of the house, with which he was very well familiar. In the butler's office there was, he knew, a phone, which, with the door closed, would permit him to talk unheard. Louis was occupied elsewhere and he got in without being seen. Latching the door, he laid off his cloak, perspiring, took up the phone and called a room at the Grand Hotel.

"Hello, Miss H.? . . . This is Y. you know. Yes. Listen closely, for I'm not going to talk very loudly. I said, listen closely, for I am not going to talk very loudly. You understand?" "Oh, Lord, he thought, how can a woman be so dumb. "Yes," he wanted on, "everything is as I told you it would be. The old boy is up in the air. Now, listen. You're to do exactly as I told you. No rough stuff, and don't miss any of your cues. You're to let him see you, but at the moment when I can grab you and take you out. Yes. You're sure you understand?" Harry Yancey had gone over this role with Lorraine Holly many times, but he still had his doubts about her ability to play it. He was a little sorry because of her "dumbness."

"Time yourself carefully," he went on. "The main entrance. Use the invitation I gave you. Let me remind you again, girlie, that he's the big boss in this town, and that if you make any slips and break any glasses, he can do you a powerful lot of harm. And he will. He's that kind."

Harry Yancey's plan was simple. He was going to scare Noble and garner some easy money for himself. At the eleventh hour, he would seize Lorraine and take her away from the ball, as she was about to throw herself into Noble's arms, and manage to get a big check from the millionaire which he would split half way and possibly two shares for himself.

He had lost some of his original confidence in the plan, originally conceived in a spirit of revenge, and he was a little doubtful of its success, because of the low intelligence of the woman—what in the world Noble had ever seen in her he didn't know—but with himself in the mess, he had to get out. Having wired her, and got her to Central City, he had to get her out of town without her really doing any damage to Noble.

putting his mask at hand, he went back around the house, and sought his wife upon the floor. "Where in the devil have you been?" she greeted him. "What in the devil do you mean leaving me standing here like a fool?" Harry shrugged as he swung her into a dance.

In room 756 of the Grand Hotel, Lorraine Holly, dancer, surveyed herself for a seventh time in the mirror, and carefully readjusted her costume. She turned toward the door, and, for the fourth time, paused as she was about to open it, to return to a bottle which reposed in a drawer in the dresser.

All Hymns in Book Sung in Single Service

Redlands, Cal.—All the hymns in the standard hymn book of the Methodist Episcopal church were read, recited or sung in the Methodist Episcopal church at Yucalpa during an eleven-hour period. A total of 748 hymns were used in the service. Walter Fritts, Redlands high school student, recited 37 hymns. About 100 persons participated in the service. Each family in the congregation had been assigned ten hymns.

SHE WAS AFRAID TO SLEEP

"For a year I was afraid to sleep because gas (from stomach) collected around my heart. Now I take Adlerika once a week and have not been bothered since." (signed) Mrs. E. Cole. Adlerika removes gas in TEN minutes and brings out old waste matter you never thought was in your system. It is such an excellent intestinal evacuant that it is wonderful for constipation and allied stomach trouble. Stops that full, bloated feeling and makes you happy and cheerful. No matter what you have tried the REAL action of Adlerika will surprise you. J. D. Holloway, Druggist, in Wellsbury by Fred A. Musser.

Human Engine Need Repairs

When you start on a journey, do you ever stop to think about the vast amount of work that had to be done on the engine that pulls the train and makes it possible for you to go? It must be working properly in every detail because if it isn't, you cannot take the trip. It must be inspected thoroughly before each trip for if any little thing is amiss the results may be dangerous.

The human body is very much like the engine for if you wish to take your trip through life in safety you must have each part working properly. Mr. Fred Jackson, 912 Morris street, Charleston, W. Va., who has been employed by the New York Central railroad for eight years, found that his body was running behind schedule so he went into the shop for repairs.

He says: "I had reached the place where I realized something must be done. For ten years I suffered with indigestion and kidney trouble. I saw Kad-dok advertised and I thought perhaps it was just what I needed. It proved to be just the remedy I needed to build me up and I gratefully recommend it to my friends. Get a bottle today and give it a fair trial and you will be surprised how quickly it works. Kad-dok is sold in East Liverpool at Mathews' Cut Rate Store and other drug stores."

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Rub it on with your finger-tips. First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Better than a mustard plaster.

Now You Can End Constipation In 10 Days or Less

Mean the Chronic Kind—The Habitual Kind That Calls for Daily Purging—Guaranteed, Too.

Now what do you think, good folks? Remember we told you the other day in this paper about McCoy's Rinolin and how in ten days it would conquer the most stubborn kind of constipation and after that the bowels would function normally and regularly.

Remember how we invited all who wanted to get rid of constipation and that vicious habit of taking salts and violent cathartics to go to C. G. Anderson or Mathews' Medicine Store, or any drug store and get a bottle of Rinolin with the distinct understanding that it would do just what we said it would do or money back.

A whole lot of people must read this paper, because hardly before the ink is dry on our notice of invitation druggists in this city and towns nearby commenced to have a brick demand for this effective Emulsion.

And the best of all—according to the druggists—everyone who bought seems satisfied and of course they are, for McCoy's Rinolin was tried on thousands of slaves of habitual constipation before it was offered direct thru druggists to the people. And how do you think it established regular bowel movements? The answer is simple; it overcomes the chronic condition by thoroughly cleaning the walls of the intestines of all accumulated deposits and toxins which prevented active and normal peristalsis—no other preparations have been able to do this.

Besides that—it lubricated and put tone into the entire intestinal track so that it will be many a day before these now happy people will think of purgatives again.

Without active peristalsis, the bowels cannot function properly—McCoy's Linolin increases the peristaltic action. Rinolin tonight—Pep tomorrow.

Why more and more women turn to Flake White

A perfect laundry soap—with a TONIC for the hands

Think of it—a pure gentle soap—that launders all things perfectly—and actually benefits your hands every time you use it because it includes a natural skin tonic.

No wonder it delights women! A laundry aid and a beauty aid in one! Why rub when the gentle 10-second lather simply whisks dirt out of sheer stockings, gay house dresses, dainty woollens and coarser things, and leaves them bright, fresh, clean, sweet.

These things cost a lot of money, too. Isn't it wise to use this safe soap that gives them extra life?

Don't delay getting this better soap. Your pocketbook will thank you. U. S. Government statistics show that 1/5 of your income goes for clothes; and when you figure in bed linen, curtains, blankets, etc., it's really more than that. Use this soap to protect them.

URGE BEER, WINE

Congressional "Wets" Hail Announcement; Drys Scoff at it.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Announcement by the Rev. James Empringham, national secretary of the Church Temperance society, an organization of clergymen and laymen of the Protestant Episcopal church, that the society would work for a modification of the Volstead act, caused a tremendous sensation in church circles today.

Rev. Empringham, formerly superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league here for one year, announced that a questionnaire had been sent to 20,000 members of the society and that the majority of answers agreed that "prohibition had undone the work of fifty years of the temperance movement."

"I started out a year ago," Rev. Empringham said, "to gather material for a pamphlet showing that prohibition was a success. I have not finished that pamphlet. My survey behind the scenes of enforcement in Chicago, the South, Baltimore and other cities showed that I was wrong. We thought a law would be better than education to stop drinking. We made a mistake."

Explain New Policy.

The new policy of the society, it was declared, was adopted because it has been shown that prohibition has resulted in:

An end of temperance teaching.

Increased drinking among young people.

Increased demand for distilled liquors, which are mostly poisonous.

Disrespect for all laws.

Class discrimination, in favor of the rich.

Increased intemperance.

The society's plan calls for a campaign to permit the sale of beer and wine. Rev. Empringham stated, he declared that Wayne B. Wheeler, national head of the Anti-Saloon league, had sought by mail, telephone and telegram, to prevent announcement of the society's new policy.

Rev. Empringham's announcement of the result of the society's questionnaire and the adoption of the new policy was made at a meeting of the Episcopal clergy of New York and vicinity. The society includes among its membership 21 bishops as well as a great many ministers.

Officers of Society

The Rt. Rev. Ethelberg Talbot, bishop of Harrisburg, Pa., is patron of the church temperance society.

The honorary vice presidents are: The Rt. Rev. Reginald Weller, bishop of Fond Du Lac, Wis.; the Rt. Rev. John C. Ward, bishop of Leavenworth, Kan.; and the Rt. Rev. Theodore P. Thurston, bishop of eastern Oklahoma.

The vice presidents are: The Rt. Revs. Thomas J. Garland, Edward C. Acheson, John P. Tyler, Sheldon M. Griswold, W. Bertrand Stevens, William P. Remington, Frank H. Touret, Frederick B. Howden, James R. Winchester, Edward M. Parker and Boyd Vincent.

Drys Ready for Vote.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Congressional "wets" today hailed the announcement of the Episcopal church temperance society for modification of the Volstead act as the most important development against prohibition since its adoption, while the "bone dries" scoffed at its value, declaring they were ready and willing to bring the issue to a vote at any time.

"It is a complete answer to the campaign of misrepresentation," said Senator Edge, (R.) of New Jersey, leader of the senate wet bloc, "when church organizations come out for modification there is no question but that we are going to get leaders of the country around a table to work out a solution."

Senator Sheppard (D.), Texas, leading prohibitionist in the senate, ridiculed the importance of the Episcopal action.

"It will have absolutely no effect the situation. Prohibition is stronger than ever before," said Sheppard. "There will be no crystallization of opposition as many wets fondly hope. Let them bring the issue to a vote at any time. We're ready for them—stronger than ever before."

Legislation, repealing an ordinance enacted more than a year ago creating 15 special police, commonly known as "35 per month men," will be considered by the municipal legislative body on second reading at a meeting in the municipal court headquarters at 7:30 o'clock this evening. This ordinance was placed on first reading two weeks ago.

Causes of World War Traced Back to Medieval Feudalism

American Library of Congress, in Report to Senate, Brushes Aside War Guilt Confession of Germany.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The causes of the World war, which cost civilization $100,000,000,000 and 40,000,000 human casualties, have been traced back to medieval feudalism and the "thirty years war" of the seventeenth century by the American library of congress in a special report to the United States senate, it was learned today.

The war guilt of Germany, written into the Versailles treaty at the order of the allies, was brushed aside as a thing of trivial importance while the library experts delved deep into the dim pages of history to seek the basic causes for humanity's greatest cataclysm. If anything, the report showed, contemporary rulers were helpless in the trend of great political movements, begun long before the men who fought in the war were even born, but which were leading individually to a tremendous conflict between all the states of the earth.

Stresses Bitter Jealousies.

In preparing a biography of the World War and its causes, William A.

Slade, chief bibliographer of the library, declared that only historians of the future would be able to fix definitely the blame for the world's greatest war. Of recent causes, Slade stressed the bitter jealousies between the triple alliance and the triple entente but he laid the foundation for these jealousies to events that occurred hundreds of years ago. He drew no final conclusion but he did declare that the year 1871 was a "turning point" in creating causes for the world conflict.

The bibliography was prepared in response to a senate resolution, passed February 21, 1925, at the instance of then Senator Owen, D., of Oklahoma, who intended the senate foreign relations committee should use it in determining who was directly responsible for the World war. It included tens of thousands of documents, ranging from state papers to historical treatises by men long since dead.

A report by Slade on the bibliography was turned over to Senator Borah, R., of Idaho, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, accompanied by a note from H. B. Meyer, director of the library's legislative division. Meyer joined with Slade in declaring the "time is not yet ripe for an exhaustive inquiry into causes of the World war, the evidence being as yet incomplete, much of it still controversial and many sources of essential questions of fact being as yet undisclosed."

Meyer joined with Slade in declaring the "time is not yet ripe for an exhaustive inquiry into causes of the World war, the evidence being as yet incomplete, much of it still controversial and many sources of essential questions of fact being as yet undisclosed."

Slade, chief bibliographer of the library, declared that only historians of the future would be able to fix definitely the blame for the world's greatest war. Of recent causes, Slade stressed the bitter jealousies between the triple alliance and the triple entente but he laid the foundation for these jealousies to events that occurred hundreds of years ago. He drew no final conclusion but he did declare that the year 1871 was a "turning point" in creating causes for the world conflict.

The bibliography was prepared in response to a senate resolution, passed February 21, 1925, at the instance of then Senator Owen, D., of Oklahoma, who intended the senate foreign relations committee should use it in determining who was directly responsible for the World war. It included tens of thousands of documents, ranging from state papers to historical treatises by men long since dead.

A report by Slade on the bibliography was turned over to Senator Borah, R., of Idaho, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, accompanied by a note from H. B. Meyer, director of the library's legislative division. Meyer joined with Slade in declaring the "time is not yet ripe for an exhaustive inquiry into causes of the World war, the evidence being as yet incomplete, much of it still controversial and many sources of essential questions of fact being as yet undisclosed."

UNCLE SAM MAY COLLECT TAXES UNDER OLD LAW

New Revenue Act May Not Pass Before Mar. 15.

DISCUSS PLAN

Probably Will Advise Payment of Fourth of Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Unless the new federal revenue act is passed by March 1, collection of taxes on 1925 incomes may be made at the higher rates of the old law, Undersecretary of the Treasury Winston declared today.

Income tax returns for the year must be in the hands of collections of internal revenue by midnight, March 15, unless congress passes a resolution extending the time of payment until after adoption of the new law.

Winston explained that about two weeks will be required to distribute blanks and that taxpayers must have a few days within which to prepare their returns.

"If humanly possible collection will be made on the basis of the new law, but March 1 is just about the dead line," Winston said.

May Extend Time.

In case passage of the law is held up beyond March 1 and it becomes necessary to collect taxes under the old act, taxpayers will be advised to remit but one-fourth of their assessment to obviate the necessity of re-funds later.

As many small taxpayers usually "pay in full" March 15, the government will have a materially smaller amount of cash for its requirements until June, unless the new law becomes effective shortly.

Although the bureau of internal revenue has indicated there may be some extension of time for filing returns, treasury officials declared that the law provides that at least one-fourth of the income tax must be paid with the filing of returns March 15, unless congress authorizes an extension.

Warren, Ohio Girl Kidnaped; Police Here on Lookout

Warren police today asked local authorities to be on the lookout for two men, said to be Italians, who are alleged to have kidnaped Miss Alma Runion, 21, of Warren, as she was on her way home at 12:30 o'clock this morning.

The men are said to be L. M. Lamont and Mike Murtie, both of Pittsburgh. Police said they were traveling in a Hudson coach bearing Ohio license number 151-964.

The river packet "Kate Adams" will pass through East Liverpool late this afternoon from Pittsburgh to New Orleans for the annual Mardi Gras expedition.

Trade Unions Vote

Others argued that the people would reject a plan to issue more bonds.

Refer Issue to Unions

Although $40,000 was originally set aside for this improvement the fund has dwindled by the difference between the interest rate on the bonds and the earnings on the deposit.

Members of council pointed out that by transfer of the Market house money to a municipal building fund, and conversion of city-owned real estate into cash, only a small bond issue would be necessary to finance fire and police departments, jail, street department, municipal court, all city officers and also provide a public auditorium for mass meetings.

After the proposal had been discussed pro and con, it was decided to refer it to subordinate unions for their approval or rejection. The subordinate unions will make their report at the meeting on March 3.

New Magic of ARIUM—Radium in Tablets—Without Drugs—Bring Amazing and Lasting Relief to Sufferers—Test It Yourself.

$5,000.00 REWARD IF IT FAILS

If you are one of the thousands who are still needlessly suffering untold agony from sharp stabbing pains or the dull, deadly ache which never seems to leave you—if you are steadily losing your youth and usefulness under the terrific torture of sciatica, lumbago, arthritis, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia or gout, you owe it to yourself to try ARIUM at once.

Doctors and hospital authorities, and men and women in every walk of life, stand absolutely amazed at the way it so quickly reduces inflammation, thereby giving lasting relief from pain. Dr. A. B. of Texas reports "Remarkable success in cases of rheumatism of years standing." Dr. R. V. B. of Utah says: "I have used ARIUM in a chronic and very obstinate case of neuritis and according to the patient's own statement, he has derived more benefit from these tablets than from anything he has ever used before." Mrs. J. A. S. of Montana says: "I know that ARIUM has saved my life. It is wonderful for rheumatism."

ARIUM actually helps in a definite way to remove the real cause of rheumatism by dissolving the salts which have crystallized and hardened on the nerve fibres. By holding these salts in solution, ARIUM prevents them from depositing on the bones the action of ARIUM has proven little short of miraculous—even in seemingly hopeless cases. A multitude of alarming symptoms quickly disappear. You see and feel a truly startling improvement in yourself each day.

The Associated Radium Chemists, Inc., of New York, which supplies druggists with ARIUM, guarantees successful and satisfactory results in every case from its progressive use or money refunded, and offers a $5,000.00 reward if it fails to prove that a definite quantity of genuine radium is used in its preparation. ARIUM is easy and economical to take and may be readily obtained in this city from any good druggist who can easily get it for you if he has none in stock.

When nothing seems to do that lingering, bothersome cough any good druggist will go to Carnahan's Drug Stores, 358 D. Holloway, and get a bottle of ARIUM.

Be directed and notice how ARIUM comes that persistent cough you many sleep sound for the part-tough, hang-on coughs, and that's exactly what it does—quickly and thoroughly. There is no dope in Broncholine, nor chloroform, nor sugar—such things are only makeshifts and should be taken with the greatest caution. For ordinary simple coughs two or three doses of Broncholine is usually enough.

Carnahan's Drug Stores, 358 D. Holloway, and dealers everywhere supply.

BEST SORE THROAT TREATMENT FOR CHILDREN

Children's sore throats often lead to tonsillitis, scarlet fever or diphtheria. A wonderful new internal prescription has been perfected, called Thosine, that goes direct to the cause of sore throat and corrects it at once. Children take it willingly. Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

Never mind what caused it—you've probably been like a lot of other people convinced that the only thing to use was an ointment or salve (some of them are very good) but in the majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores and the condition primarily remains the same.

Go to Mathews Medicine Store or any other good druggist today and get an original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil.

The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past.

Don't expect a single bottle to do it all at once but one bottle we know will show you beyond all question that you have at last discovered the one and only sure way to restore your skin to perfect health.

Remember that Moore's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.

EGYPT RESTRICTS COTTON PLANTING

Part of Limited Arable Acreage Reserved to Raise Foodstuffs.

Washington.—Cotton, Egypt's chief crop, is to be restricted during 1926. According to recent dispatches from Cairo, a law has just been placed in effect in Egypt which will prohibit the planting of more than one-third of the arable land with cotton this year.

"The statute directs attention to peculiar physical features of the land of the Pharaohs," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society. "For, although Egypt cuts a big notch in the map of northern Africa, only a narrow strip along 900 miles of the River Nile is arable or habitable. In an area which is about equal to that of Maryland, more than nine times Maryland's population, or some 18,000,000 people, must be fed.

"It is necessary, therefore, for the government to enact stringent regulations concerning the use of this land. Tobacco growing is prohibited. Farming land is much too precious to be used for luxuries, especially for such soil-enervating luxuries as tobacco. Egypt has many cigarette factories and its cigarette makers are skilled in curing and blending tobacco, but the leaf is obtained elsewhere, generally from the Levant, or from the islands of the Aegean archipelago.

"Egypt, as has so often been said, is the 'gift of the Nile.' The life of the country, its trade, its foreign contacts, and even the character of its inhabitants have been molded to meet the capacities and the whims of this great stream. No country in the world is so dependent on a river. Without the Nile Egypt would cease to exist as a fertile country.

The Egyptian Type.
"The desert, however, has been a co-star with the Nile in the Egyptian spectacle of the ages. Cloudless blue skies, powerful sunlight, and dry, warm air have given Egyptian climate a uniformity especially suited to the formation of definite types. Domestic animals, in particular, give proof of its transforming influence. Oxen, often exterminated by murrain, have been replenished by foreign breeds from every part of the globe, and in a few generations almost invariably assume the well-known Egyptian type, familiar from the paintings and hieroglyphics of ancient tombs and temples.

"The natives, too, have changed little. Despite a turbulent political career in the last few centuries, during the course of which Egypt has been jockeyed from one European power to another, the great mass of the population is little different from the builders of the Pyramids. Today they speak Arabic and profess Mohammed as their prophet, but they still revere the Nile, and they still irrigate their fields with its waters after the same fashion as the subjects of King Menes, 4000 B. C.

"While the Nile brought many gifts to the ancient Egyptians it was far from a perfectly behaved river. Usually it spilled over its banks once a year, flooded the adjacent lowlands and left new layers of highly fertile soil for the year's crops. Then the Egyptians brought thanksgiving offerings to their gods. At other times the river was low. Crops were burnt up by the pitiless glare of the sun before the life-giving fluid could be brought to them. Still again the Nile was a raging flood driving all before it.

"Irrigation works developed by the English, however, have made large-scale plantings possible today. Great dams and barrages thrown across the Nile valley hold the spring rains of the southern mountains and distribute them more evenly throughout the year. Under European leadership and ingenuity Egypt has progressed agriculturally from a rather forbidding land, farmed only when naturally fertile, to a smiling ribbon of farms and plantations. Each year additional fingers of water encroach on the sun-glazed domains of the desert, fingers which transform it at a touch into luxuriant growths of green and gold and russet vegetation.

"The area watered by the Nile is thus being increased from an original acreage of a little more than 5,000,000 to nearly 8,000,000 acres. Tendrils of steel are following in the wake of those of water, in order that crops may be marketed readily. Egypt already possesses 8,000 miles of railroad, extending along the Mediterranean coast and up the Nile to the First cataract. It is connected with the railway system of Europe and Asia by a line across the Sinai peninsula, the route of the famous train known as 'The Milk and Honey Express.'

"Cotton, the commercial staple of the country and the subject of the new regulatory law, is the foundation and backbone of the prosperity which the English administration brought to Egypt. The Nile delta was found to be one of the most favorable cotton-growing regions in the world. Enthusiastic cotton planters and retailers of Egypt claim that their product is the finest in the world. Egyptian cotton is cream-colored or brownish, while American is white. It is said to be more silky and more easily mercerized than that of the Southern states.

EIGHT BIDDERS FOR ROAD BONDS

Close Competition Marks Offering of Three Million Issue.

Close competition marked the eight bids submitted yesterday for $3,000,000 worth of West Virginia state road bonds, with that of a group headed by the National City company of New York giving slightly the best terms for the state. So close were the proposals that while the winning bid was equivalent to an interest rate of 4.207 per cent on the whole issue, that of another group headed by the First National Bank of New York was the equivalent of a 4.21 rate. The National City group's bid was for $1,400,000 worth of 4 1/2 per cent bonds maturing in 1935 and 1936 and $1,600,000 worth of 4 per cent bonds maturing in 1936, 1937 and 1938. On this basis they offered par and accrued interest, plus a premium of $213. Associated with the National City company were Har-

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed.

External treatments seldom cure piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

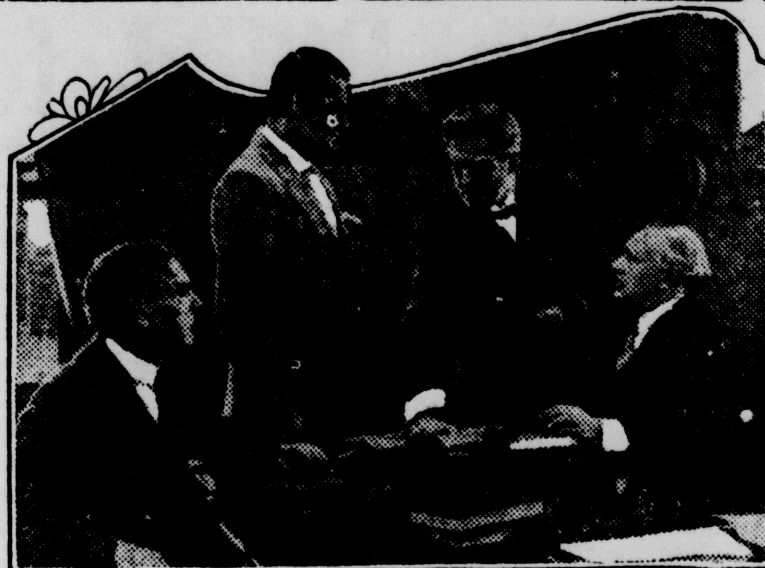

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointment and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonard, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1,000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at C. G. Anderson's, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

German Women Urged to Use U. S. Methods

Berlin.—The prevailing method of American women in conducting their households has been recommended to German women by Frau Clara Mende, one of Germany's foremost woman parliamentarians and closely identified with the National Association of German Housekeepers.

"Economy of time and strength" is the keynote of American housekeeping, Frau Mende found on a visit to the United States, and she would have her German sisters modify and adapt their methods to the exigencies of life in modern Germany.

"The German woman is the most conservative housekeeper in the world," she said, "but she is still conducting her household along precisely the same lines as did her mother and grandmother. She is unmindful of the fact that changed conditions demand changed methods."

HERE IS THE RESULT

A capacity crowd visited our stand last week. We were completely sold out of oysters, cod fish, haddock, halibut and blue pike Friday afternoon. The oysters were selling beyond our expectations—having nearly a hundred gallons. Fortunately we had a fresh supply in Saturday morning.

WHAT IS THE REASON?

It is not because I am good looking—that is sure. Our customers must be getting quality, and the kind they like. Ask any one in town about fish. They will tell you where you can get some good ones.

Tough Pair of Contests Billed for High Five This Week

Girard Here Friday, Warren On Saturday

Mrs. Mast's Lassies Face Hardest Game of Season in Clash With Warren Girls; Irondale High and Local Reserves to Put on Preliminary to Engagement with Dave Williams' Outfit.

A PAIR of the toughest engagements coming together in any one week of the season's schedule constitutes the basketball assignment for Lorah's Blue and White passers for Friday and Saturday night.

The locals are billed to tangle with Dave Williams' Girard outfit on Friday night and will take on Warren on Saturday. Both engagements will be staged on the local court.

The Warren girls will play Mrs. Mast's lassies in the Saturday preliminary and this game, coupled with the main go between the boys, helps to make the card for the night one of the most promising of the year.

Despite an unbroken series of reversals this year, Mrs. Mast's girls have lost none of their spirit and will be out on the court Saturday night fighting as determinedly as ever against a team probably the peer of any they've encountered this season.

If Lorah's lads can pull out with victories over both Girard and Warren, the achievement will be worth boasting.

Williams, at Girard, has a team of veterans, including several of his last fall's football stars, among them a halfback rated as one of the best in the state.

Warren is rapidly developing into one of the foremost schools, in athletics, at least, in the eastern section of Ohio. They are completing a new athletic plant there as a sort of testimonial to the school's growing prowess.

In the preliminary to the Friday game with Girard, the local Reserves will clash with Irondale high, the game being scheduled for 7:15.

"Sergeant Murphy," the veteran owned by "Laddie" Sanford, of New York, will not start, but the Sanford stable will be represented by Mount Etna and Bright's Boy.

France will be represented by Lauret, a 14-year-old gelding which is well fancied.

The Irish sportsmen are placing their hopes on Koko, an eight-year-old, that has been doing nicely in the winter flat racing in England.

Ruddygrow, which has been the favorite English candidate, has not been entered.

Some of the veteran favorites are entered, including Master Robert, a 25-1 winner of two years ago, Silvio, Old Tay Bridge and Double Chance, a horse that paid hunch betters well last year.

Sixty horses have been entered for the race, insuring a field of at least 30 starters.

CANNE-GREENE WIN PIN MATCH

Top Patterson-Chambers by Margin of 126.

By a decisive margin of 126 pins Canne and Green trimmed Patterson and Chambers in a special duckpin match last night on the alleys at Beaver, Pa., a neutral floor selected by the combatants.

The Green-Canne combine hung up a grand total of 1,514. The efforts of Patterson and Chambers netted 1,388. They rolled a five-game series.

Patterson rolled high single game score of 211, but Canne knocked the manles more consistently and finished with a series total of 795 and an average of 159. Green averaged 144, Patterson 149 and Chambers 129. The scores:

Patterson....	118	138	133	144	211	744
Chambers....	77	155	169	133	110	644
Canne.....	159	169	149	152	166	795
Greene.....	119	151	141	179	129	719

EXAMS EASY ON LUTHERAN SQUAD

SPRINGFIELD, Feb. 4.—Mid-year examinations at Wittenberg college have come and gone.

The basketball team and the survivors of the football season of 1925 have been practically untouched by the semi-annual examination twister that this season took 19 students out of college life.

Only a very few athletes from the freshman class were found so lacking in scholarship qualifications that they were dropped from the rolls.

Wittenberg has half of a basketball schedule to complete. Games still to be played are: Cincinnati there, Feb. 5; Miami there, Feb. 12; Wesleyan here, Feb. 17; Ohio Northern here, Feb. 20; Denison there, Feb. 25; Muskingum there, Feb. 27; Denison here, March 5; Wooster there, March 11.

Last Night's Fights

Neward, N. J.—George Ward, Elizabeth, got the popular decision over Jack Rappaport, South Orange, N. J., 12 rounds. Harry Dudley, California, knocked out Jack McFarland, fifth round.

Says Jack's All Right. Jimmy De Forrest, well known boxing authority, after a recent visit with the champion Jack Dempsey, came to bat with the assertion that the lad from Utah is capable of taking the measure of any of the so-called challengers. Says the long lay-up hasn't hurt Jack a bit.

$10,000 Golf Game in Prospect

Sports fans around Miami, Fla., are excited over the prospect of seeing Leo Diegel, Canadian open champion, a winter "pro" there, play Abe Mitchell, British golf star, for a $10,000 purse put up by E. B. McLean, publisher and sportsman. Miami chamber of commerce has offered to pay Mitchell's expenses to and from this country.

NO TOURNEY FOR SALEM GIRLS

Red and Black Won't Compete in County Event.

SALEM, Feb. 4.—Salem High Girls will probably not enter the proposed county girls cage tourney in March.

High school authorities here believe that since Salem plays every leading county team at least once, and in several cases twice during the season, a county tourney is superfluous from the Red and Black angle.

Then, too, the county tourney, as tentatively planned, includes chiefly Class B schools, Salem, being a Class A school thinks it better that the Class B schools have their own tourney if they so care.

Columbiana was suggested as the place for the tourney at the recent meeting held in Lisbon. Since Salem is not entering, it may be that the Class B teams will ask permission to use the Salem gym as a neutral floor, as Columbiana will be one of the competing teams.

For the second straight year Salem's gym will be the scene of the annual county Class B boys tourney Feb. 26 and 27 because Salem's floor is a neutral one.

Melhorn's Break. Golfers the country over still are trying to figure out what Bill Melhorn was getting at at San Antonio just as the Texas open championship was nearing a finish. Of course he apologized to Bobby Cruikshank for making the unseemly and untimely remark that he did, but it surely was a terrible breach of greens etiquette.

Gold output of the South African mines is expected to be great this year.

Landis' Endorsement Is Blow At Johnson

Commissioner, Having Considered Stepping Down, Will Think Better of it Following National League's Action.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—One of our prominent citizens left his chin unguarded again yesterday, with the customary result that only the telltale (X) new marks the spot where the body was found. Imbued with the lofty purpose of starting another anti-Landis crusade, he rushed from his corner and led with his chin. The National League of Professional Baseball Clubs acted as honorary pallbearers. The one-punch knockout is a popular gesture with everybody but the gentleman it most concerns. The boys became quite exercised when our Mr. Dempsey dropped one over on funny Fred Fulton. But as to that, they are still talking in the Sunday schools about what David did to Goliath.

It remained, however, for the National league to establish the modern record at the expense of Byron Bancroft Johnson by recommending that Bryon's arch-irritant, Judge Landis, be retained for a period of ten years at the expiration of his $50,000 contract.

This meant the beginning and the end of another baseball war, tactically declared when Johnson turned up missing at the National league's golden jubilee dinner on Thursday night. He took this means of notifying Landis and baseball in general what he had in mind when the judge's contract ran out next year.

All the running out, now, probably will be done by Mr. Johnson. The summary reprisal exacted by the National league at once should prove the end of his Landis complex and the beginning of a new regime for bigger and better commissioners.

According to those in his confidence, the judge entertained some idea of stepping out from under when his term office expired. He probably will think better of it, after receipt of the league's heartening message. It confesses a desire to pay him $50,000 a year for ten years and the judge is nothing, if not a good fellow. He'll take the $50,000.

Of course, it takes two to make an agreement and the American league happens to be a party of the second part. But with the rival league lined up solidly behind Landis, the Johnson outfit can do no less than follow. It might not feel, in toto, the same sentiments but its organization lacks the cohesion of the National and some of its magnates are disposed to sit on the fence, anyhow, when a controversy arises.

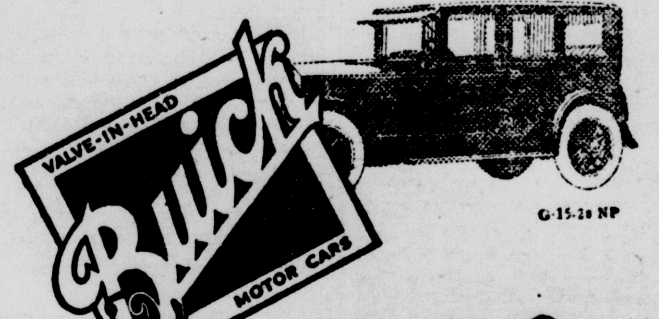

Johnson, probably, could count upon

IRONDALE HIGH HERE TOMORROW

Irondale high school passers are priming for their clash here tomorrow night with the local high Reserves in a preliminary to the Girard contest.

On the following Friday they are scheduled to tangle with the Chester high Reserves.

In a recent clash at Irondale, the team dropped a 23 to 17 decision to Salineville. Lance, Brown and Skags scored heavily for the visitors while Romick, Hicks and Ferguson made most of the points for Irondale. The preliminary between the girls' teams wound up in a 10-10 tie. The Irondale lassies exhibited superior teamwork but missed a lot of field goal chances.

Second—A card pass for two persons to the Ceramic theatre, motion picture shows, good for three months.
Third—A three month subscription for the Review-Tribune.

This contest was suggested, indirectly, by the forthcoming presentation of Paramount's "The American Venus" at the Ceramic theatre. This photoplay, starring Ernest Torrence, Fred Sterling, Esther Ralston, Lawrence Gray and other prominent players, was filmed at Atlantic City last summer during the national beauty and physical contest among the most beautiful girls from most of the leading cities. It features Miss Fay Lamphier, who was then chosen "Miss America," a committee of prominent American painters, sculptors, physicians and physical culture directors pronounced her the ideally proportioned young woman, with measurements far superior, in modern eyes, to the out-of-date classical proportions of the Venus de Milo.

Contest is for Physical Perfection. The weight and measurements of Miss Lamphier accompany this article.

Every girl or young woman of 15 years or over—there is no maximum limit—whose own proportions approach those of Miss Lamphier, is eligible to enter the "American Venus" contest. This is a competition for PHYSICAL PERFECTION, not beauty; but, if several contestants are tied at the finish, beauty will then be the deciding factor.

Here is what you have to do, girls, to enter the contest:

Angry Boy Blows Up Companion With Bomb

Minot, N. D.—Revenge inspired a fifteen-year-old boy to send an "infernal machine" to his fellow high school student, Clarence Stromwood, which resulted in an explosion which severely injured the latter. The boy was held by the police, who refused to divulge his name, to face federal charges. The "machine" was composed of dangerous explosive chemicals of the lad's own invention, he told the authorities. Stromwood, the lad said, "played dirty tricks on me."

LABOR HITS DAYLIGHT SAVING

TODAY

Hoover's Opportunity.
Ford and Rockefeller.
"Hush" in the Schools.
Darrow's Statement.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

Secretary Hoover proposes a system
of inland waterways totaling 10,000 miles in length. If he puts that plan
through, and makes the canals real,
with real water, he will have rendered
a service to this country equal to Roosevelt's digging of the Panama
canal, even greater, for the flying machine has diminished the canal's importance.

To keep and use, for navigation irrigation and power, the waters that
now rush, wasted, to the ocean, flooding vast districts, carrying rich soil
out to sea, is a task worthy of the greatest ability and patriotism.

Secretary Hoover is said to have great influence with the president. Between them, if they choose, they can have their names "writ in water" in a way that will outlast stone or bronze.

You are informed that Britain, at
the league of nations' navy conference, means to regain her job as mistress of the world's oceans and seas.
The 5-5-3 battleship ratio, arranged at Washington when this nation's "statesmen" consented to scrap our new and
half-finished battleships, was a makeshift, to hold us back, while Britain
regained her financial breath.

Britain has real statesmen. Give them time and they will get for Britain what she wants. However, she is welcome to the big floating fleet, to protect her commercial navy.

What we need is command of the air ocean. We shall never get it from our army and navy gentlemen, whose ideas fly no higher than a rooftop.
But commercial flying machines, that interest the Ford and the Rockefellers, and that Henry Ford is building,
can be transformed into effective fighting airships in three hours.

The faculty of Ohio's State university is not guilty of teaching communism, or other "red radicalism," to tender undergraduate minds. Investigation proves it. Very comforting to those that see things behind them on the stairs and believe you can kill an idea, good or bad, by saying nothing
about it.

There is no danger in communistic

Art is your constant and subtle
companion. It is always with you,
but you must recognize it. It is in everything you do, but you must find it. It is in the world about you, but you must look for it. Nature is the greatest work of art. It is for you, but you and you alone
have the power to make yourself
enjoy it. Consciously or unconsciously it means your happiness.
Art is God's greatest gift to man;
it was made to please the mind.

We have a booklet that will help
you to understand art and the happiness it brings. It will show you
the value of art. It will open new gates to contentment and recreation. It is called "The New Art Booklet" and is published by The American Federation of Arts for free distribution among the readers of this newspaper. Clip this cou-

Only One Local Shows
Any Sentiment for Proposal

COMMITTEE HEARD

Defer Action on Transfer of Market House
Fund.

Trades and Labor Council,
representing all branches of
organized labor in the district,
went on record last night
against the proposed daylight
savings in East Liverpool.
Upon roll call, all subordinate
unions except one voted against the plan to turn the clock ahead one hour during the period from April to October. Delegates from one local reported their members
divided on the proposal.

Solons Oppose Plan.
T. T. Jones, Joseph Dickey, John
Fowler and Vincent McGeehan, representing the Industrial Baseball league, asked approval of the plan. Principal spokesmen for the committee were Jones and Dickey, who pointed out that daylight savings would not even and alone bring twilight games in the Industrial Baseball league.

Opponents of the proposal declared that the workman now goes to his place of employment in the dark and
moving the clock ahead would not change conditions during the summer months.

The plan was submitted to Trades Council at a previous meeting and
sent back to the subordinate unions
for discussion. Roll call was taken by local, the vote being virtually
unanimous against it.

The opinion today was that labor's
action means the death of the proposal. The Chamber of Commerce is moving the clock ahead. But the city council, which must approve it in order to bring about its adoption as city time, is said to be opposed to the idea.

Market House Fund Discussion
Five members of the municipal legislative body, headed by Thomas Far-rall, a member of Trades council, attended the meeting to seek labor's
approval of a plan to transfer the $38,000 balance in the market house
fund to a proposed city fund.

Councilmen Farrell, O. J. Herrington, George Hughes, Edgar Heddieson,
and C. A. Goodballet voiced themselves
as favoring the proposal. Inasmuch as the fund was created by a vote of the people, sanction of the electorate
would be necessary to use the money
for any purpose other than for which
the bonds were issued.

Several labor delegates, admitting that $38,000 would be insufficient to purchase a site and erect a suitable building, expressed the opinion that the money should be kept intact and
used as the nucleus of a larger fund.

Breakstone Suits Against Insurance Companies Settled

Suits to recover insurance from 12
companies which had been filed in common pleas court, Lisbon, by Samuel Breakstone, after the fire, which destroyed the National Wholesale
Millinery company's store in the Milligan building on February 23, last,
have been settled out of court. Suits
against other companies are pending.
Insurance companies holding policies for Breakstone's stock of merchandise failed to adjust the losses,
according to the suits filed by his attorneys. Cost in the case are charged against the plaintiff, according to the journal entry.

OHIO BANKER IS SPEAKER AT KIWANIS MEET

H. M. Cattell, Steubenville, Discusses Question of Loans.

50 AT LUNCHEON

"Get Acquainted With Your Banker," is Advice.

"If every man who seeks a loan at a bank were to ask himself the question 'would I lend my own money upon the information and with the security that I am prepared to offer' much of the misunderstanding that often creeps into transactions between a bank and its customers would disappear," H. M.
Cattell, vice president and treasurer of the Union Savings bank and Trust company, Steubenville, told members of the Kiwanis club at a noon luncheon in the Larkins' annex.

C. C. Cline presided at the meeting.
The singing was led by Prof. Hugh F.
Laughlin, with Clair Chambers as ac-
companist.

The club accepted the invitation of the Lions' club to cooperate in the promotion of a "Safety First" campaign. The Kiwanians will be represented by the public affairs committee. The joint committee will meet at the call of the chairman, Albert Mc-Lain, of the McLain Yellow Cab company.

A letter from Mrs. L. C. Difford, widow of the late rector of the St.
Stephen's Episcopal church, thanking the club for their letter of condolence, and also members who acted as pallbearers, was read.

Commission.

Four Democrats are Mentioned to Fill
Place.

Thomas J. Duffy, of East Liverpool, former president of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters and
chairman of the state industrial commission, will leave public office on
Feb. 15 to enter the practice of law in the state capital, it was announced today at Columbus.

Duffy, whose decision to retire is prompted by his wish to establish a permanent business instead of depending upon the uncertainties of political life, has been identified with the state
board since 1911, when he resigned
as leader of the pottery employees' union.
He is a Democrat, and a member of this party will be appointed by Gov. A. V. Donahey to fill the vacancy.

Chairman Duffy has been on the commission from the time the workmen's compensation fund was created until the fund has grown to $48,000,000. The salary of the office
was fixed at $5,000 when the commis-
increased.

Regrets Resignation
In tendering his resignation to Gov.
Donahey, Duffy, wrote that "it is with a deep feeling of regret that I take
this step."

"My interest in the development and
administration of the Ohio workmen's compensation law," he said in his letter, "has been so tense that I cannot separate myself from it without a feeling of genuine sorrow. But the years are rapidly going by and the most expensive part of the training
and education of my six children is yet
before me. Under such circumstances one cannot look to the future with a feeling of confidence, when his means of livelihood depend upon the variable winds of political life."

"My tenure of office has been much
longer than that of the average public official, simply because my terms of
office expired while the political party
to which I belong, was in power. But I know the fate that awaits me, sooner or later, if I attempt to continue
in office."

Must Act Now, He Says
"Therefore, I feel that in justice to my family, I should now endeavor to establish myself in some permanent business, while I yet possess the strength and energy to do it, and not wait to be turned out of office when impossible for me successfully to take
up anything else."

"I am sincerely grateful for having had the honor of serving the people of Ohio as a member of the industrial commission and if I have acquired any experience in that capacity that can be used at any time in behalf of
the workmen's compensation law, I assure you that, as a private citizen,
I will readily and gladly give it."

since last fall. Tuesday, according to a cablegram received last night by
Attorney W. H. Vodrey.

Mr. Phillips, accompanied by his

in hopes that the change of climate
would benefit his health. His condi-

to the last letter received by local
friends, to sail for the United States
on January 19. His death was attributed to a complication of diseases.

He was born in Springfield, Ohio,
May 7, 1865, a son of Howard J. and

THREE BODIES FOUND AS RESCUERS BATTLE BLAZE AT HORNING PA.

With Hope Abandoned for Lives of Men Imprisoned in Shaft, All Efforts are Directed to Extinguishing Fire in Mine No. 4 of Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company.

FOREMAN AND ANOTHER MAN ESCAPE UNAIDED WHEN EXPLOSION OCCURS

Begin Work on Safety Wall When Second Blast Threatens Lives of About 30 Volunteers Who Enter Flaming Underground Passage in Search For Bodies of Victims.

By THOMAS E. BROOKS
HORNING, Pa., Feb. 4.—With hope abandoned for the rescue alive of 17 men entombed following an explosion in Horning mine No. 4 of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company, all efforts were directed today to extinguishing the blaze raging in the shaft in the hope that the bodies may be recovered.

Three bodies have been recovered from the drift, those of John Petrovitch, cutter, Louis Christian, and a third body believed to be that of Thomas Piccolo.

The condition of the three bodies recovered was such that identification was next to impossible. It was at first believed that the body of Reis Bradburn, night boss, was one of the three removed from the mine, but later relatives of Piccolo identified the body.

Two men, Edward Travis, foreman, and Louis Howell, who were in the shaft at the time of the explosion, escaped unaided.

Rescue crews under the direction of John S. Bell, John I. Pratt and P. J. Callahan, state mine inspectors, are building a safety wall about 500 feet from the scene of the first explosion in an effort to smother the flames.

Two Men Collapse.

This was decided upon at midnight when a second explosion threatened the lives of about 30 rescue workers. William Ivill, superintendent of No. 3 mine, and Matthews Blair, superintendent of No. 8 mine, collapsed after the second explosion and are in a serious condition.

Rescue crews from the Pittsburgh coal company, the H. C. Erick Coal and Coke company, United States mine rescue bureau, Safety Appliance Corporation and crews from mines Nos. 2, 3 and 8, are at work in the shaft.

Fire originally broke out in butt 15, about 4,000 feet from the face of the mine, probably caused by a spark from a cutting machine igniting dust and gas. All miners were ordered out of this section and fire crews sent in to fight the blaze which was not considered serious at the time.

After they had constructed a safety wall in front of the fire, it was believed that the blaze was under control, but a few minutes later another explosion occurred. Mine officials believe an accumulation of gas behind the wall caused the explosion.

President D. E. Tuttle, of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company, declared this morning that the real heroes of the fire were the 21 men who braved the dangers of the burning mine, 19 of whom are believed to have lost their lives.

Two Killed, Six Hurt And 40 Buried as Building Collapses

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Feb. 4.—Two men are dead, six others so seriously injured that they may die and at least 40 other persons are buried in the ruins of the North and Judd manufacturing company foodary building which collapsed this afternoon under the weight of snow on its roof.

The entire New Britain fire department was called out. They immediately began digging into the ruins, seeking either to save lives or to recover bodies.

Officials of the North and Judd company are being rounded by city officials in an effort to secure an approximate idea of how many were in the plant when the crash occurred. An estimates place this number from 40 to 60.

TWO ARE KNOWN DEAD AND SIX OTHERS MISSING AS WORST BLIZZARD OF WINTER SWEEPS ENTIRE ATLANTIC COAST; EASTERN CITIES SUFFER

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The worst
blizzard of the winter was today
sweeping the entire Atlantic coast.

Four inches of snow had fallen here
early today and the weather forecaster estimated that another two inches
would fall before the storm is over.
Two men are known dead in the metropolitan area and six others who were aboard barges which were torn away from their tugs during the storm, are missing. When complete

reports come in from craft caught at sea it is feared the death toll may be higher.

Five thousand men were employed
on the streets of New York all night,
clearing them of snow in an effort to keep traffic moving. Early today
10,000 more men were called out.

Property Damage Great.
Property damage, it is feared, will be great. All train service has been greatly delayed. Ferries were 15 minutes and more behind their schedules

because of ice blocking the slips.

The six men who are missing were
on the barges Phoenix and Vapor,
which were torn loose from the tow-
boat Thomas Howard off Asbury Park
last night. The Vapor was seen to sink. The Phoenix was later found,
pounding to pieces on the beach. No
trace of the six men, three on each

barge, was found and it is feared they perished.

George Quinn, a retired captain of the fire department, was found dead
in the snow in front of his home in Jersey City.

Peter Keane, 67, was found dead at the entrance to a lodging house here.

Police Arrest Sam Dadario, Seize Still Equipment In Liquor Raid

Prisoner Pleads Guilty to Manufacturing and Possessing; Pays $1,000 Fine and is Released.

With the arrest of Sam Dadario, 1128 Commerce street, last night by local police, on two prohibition law charges, and the assessment of a $1,000 fine plus costs, Mayor W. L. Fogo within the past six days has established something of a record in the matter of quick, tangible collections.

Dadario paid Mayor Fogo $1,000 on charges of manufacturing and possessing and this, coupled with the fine assessed Domenico Yatti Saturday, amounts to over $1,800. The actual cash is in the city treasury.

On their second liquor sortie since Saturday, police raided Dadario's home last night at 9 o'clock and confiscated alleged liquor making equipment rivaling in size and completeness the outfit landed in the week-end raid.

Patrolmen Newton, Hurd, Pugh and Kinney took part in the raid. Dadario and a friend, M. Silvestri, were in the house when police arrived. They offered no opposition.

The still was operating in the cellar. The outfit included a still almost as large as that seized by the police several days ago; nine five-gallon kegs of liquor; two coils, hose and other equipment; 500 pounds of sugar and five or six empty kegs.

Silvestri, according to police, was carrying a large knife. He was fined $25 and costs on a concealed weapon count. Two revolvers were found in the home.

Following the raid, Mayor Fogo hired a crew of four men to aid in removing the equipment from the cellar. The mash was destroyed and the still equipment was taken to the city hall building.

Arraigned before Mayor Fogo, Dadario pleaded guilty to the charges and paid his fine and was released.

LISTS REPAIRS FOR CITY HALL

Building Inspection Committee Submits Report.

From the roof to the basement floor, the old city hall building is sadly in need of repairs, in the opinion of a citizens' committee of three local business men who recently completed a minute inspection of the structure.

Electric wiring through the building was condemned. The committee recommended new plumbing, the removal of all "trash," and new paper and paint in practically every room.

In the report of E. G. Morrow, E. E. Gamble and T. A. McIntosh, the committee named by council to inspect the building, the city hall would be in pretty good shape if the following repairs:

"The tin work on the roof to be given substantial repairs after which the same is to be well coated with a black asphalt liquid seal roof cement, this point to be examined by the committee when applied; also should any other repairs be needed to make the roof intact and free from leaks the same shall be taken care of at this time and the galvanized ridge roll on hips to be painted with one coat of red paint; and under this heading, one main spout is to be adjusted from cornice to ground on rear of building."

"All cornices, window frames and sashes to be given two coats of paint, except windows and doors on first floor which will have one coat; sashes to be repainted where needed; the fire escape to be well cleaned as well as the iron railings around cellar entrance and a coat of black liquid seal paint applied."

"Third story hall—That ceiling be repaired in places where needed, after which it is to be sashed; plastering in walls to be repaired and then papered; window sash and sills to be repaired where needed; all inside woodwork to be washed and varnished. The upper hall or vestibule leading to the third floor shall have the same attention as the third floor. Under this paragraph the committee would recommend that a new flag pole be procured and adjusted to the front of the building; also that a hot water line be run to a wash sink adjacent to the stairs and that a drain board be installed to the said sink, in order that the hall would be better equipped for handling socials."

"Second floor—Ladies' rest room—Ceiling to be repapered, ladies' toilet cleaned and papered; room 2 fronting on Main street one new pane of glass put in and sash and window repaired."

"Ladies' detention room—Tiling to be replaced, walls papered and plumbing taken care of."

"Hallway, second floor—Paper hanging shall dado and wainscot the same three and a half feet up from the baseboard with a dark in-grain paper using a binder on the top edge; south window in main room to have a new sill."

"Council chamber—Plastering to be repaired where needed; woodwork washed and varnished; room papered."

"The double doors leading from the Fifth street side of the basement be renewed and equipped with a good lock and keys. The public toilet in the basement should have plastering patched and walls and ceiling coated with wall tone paint, light color preferred."

"The committee also recommends that the excess accumulation of commodities, or trash, if you would choose to speak of it in this manner, be cleaned from the premises and the walls be treated to a coat of water paint."

"Jail—Vestibule or entrance to be refloored with hardwood, the inside walls to be repaired where needed and given two coats of wall tone paint of a light color; the steel cells to be coated with a dark paint."

"Plumbing—The committee, in their judgment, would advise a renewal of the sanitary closets in jail and in the public toilet in the basement, also that all lavatories and other closets in the building not heretofore mentioned be put in first class condition."

with a good grade of paper and new linoleum put down on platform used by your honorable body.

"Mayor's office—Plastering repaired where needed, woodwork washed and given a coat of varnish stain, and, if needed, two coats. These rooms shall also be neatly papered with a good grade of paper."

"Staircase leading from street to second floor—Repair hand railings and varnish; paper ceiling only; paint inside of front door and the entire staircase, using one coat of flat paint, finishing with a coat of varnish stain floor paint, color to be determined by council; new rubber pads to be put down after painting is finished; one new electric light of an improved type to be installed in front of entrance leading to stair case."

"City water department—Windows on south side repaired, woodwork washed and varnished, rooms repapered."

"Boiler room—Thermostat to be installed on gas boiler for regulation of steam pressure. The committee would recommend that these boilers be given a good cleaning and supply a coat of aluminum paint; also that the walls and ceilings be given a coat of light color water paint."

"Cellar, or basement, in entirety—It would seem to the committee that the electric wiring is obsolete and badly in need of attention. We would therefore recommend renewal of the same by a competent electrician."

"The regular meeting of the local aerie will be held tonight. A large class of candidates will be initiated. Mr. Steine said, in part:

"The growth of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in the last two years from 250,000 to nearly 600,000 members demands explanation. Men who never had any inclination to join a lodge are finding reasons to join a lodge."

"From a simple beginning has sprung the organization whose humane impulse is today felt in a million homes."

"The benefit fund that protects the sick Eagle is rigidly safeguarded. The order lost thousands of members through influenza and had upon its Aerie sick list tens of thousands of men. Yet not a single funeral benefit, nor a single sick claim was defaulted."

"Since its organization 27 years ago, there has been paid out in sick benefits to our members $27,153,538; for funeral benefits $3,241,993, and for medical services $8,610,727—a total of $41,046,259."

"Now, on the foundation that I have described the F. O. E. has begun to rear another structure—the Old Age Pension movement."

"Our campaign to secure justice for aged workers was begun three years ago when the grand aerie of the F. O. E. appointed a national Old Age Pension commission and subsequently appropriated to its use the interest amounting to a substantial number of thousands of dollars annually, on a permanent fund of the grand aerie. The plan of the work has been to set the facts of old age poverty before the public. Three states now have old age pension laws. In 26 other states bill are pending."

F. O. E. OFFICER SPEAKER HERE

Describes Benefits of Fraternal Order.

As one of the inaugural steps in the Wellsville Eagles' membership campaign, George A. Strine, of Yorkville, Pa., last night delivered an interesting address to the local aerie in the lodge rooms in Main street.

Strine cited benefits of the order, outlined its plans and policies and explained its record covering a period of 27 years since the organization was founded.

The regular meeting of the local aeries will be held tonight. A large class of candidates will be initiated. Mr. Steine said, in part:

ENTERTAINERS AT IRONDALE HIGH

The McCords, popular entertainers, will appear in the second number of the Irondale high school lyceum course on Friday evening in the high school gymnasium. Their performance is scheduled to start at 8 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. McCord are pioneers in the field of the modern lyceum and in the last 10 years have appeared before audiences in practically all parts of the United States and Canada.

Mr. McCord is a characterist who specializes in "types." He is not only a master of portrayal, but a master of dialect as well. His characters are fittingly costumed and with the aid of wigs and grease paint he makes almost instant transformations.

Mrs. McCord is a vocalist of distinction and also clever in the art of impersonation. She also excels in piano solos. Their program will be featured with dramatic sketches, including the "Old Fiddler" sketch. "The Newly Wed Husband" is another of their dramatic skits, and in the "Rural School Entertainment" the McCords are said to be at their best.

AUTO IS STRUCK BY INTERURBAN

A Cadillac coupe owned by the D. N. MacLean funeral home here, and driven by Norman MacLean, was slightly damaged yesterday when it was struck by a westbound interurban car at the intersection of Aten and Clark avenues.

MacLean was driving out of Aten avenue and failed to hear the interurban. Unable to see as a result of a sharp corner, he drove onto the tracks before he could stop. The interurban was brought to a stop as the front end struck the auto's fender.

Four Great Actors In Screen Drama At the American

One of the greatest casts of actors ever assembled appears in First National's forthcoming production, "Fine Clothes," to be shown at the American theatre three days, commencing Thursday.

There are only four male roles in the picture, and each is portrayed by a veteran of the stage and screen, the quartette including Lewis S. Stone, Percy Marmont, Raymond Griffith and William V. Mong.

Stone, who plays the part of the Earl of Denham, has been on the stage since 1901, when he made his first hit in "The Misleading Lady." He continued his work on the legitimate stage until 1915 when Thomas H. Ince gave him one of the leading roles in "Honor's Altar." Since that time he has never left the screen, and during his ten years in motion pictures has built up a reputation for being one of the finest actors in the industry.

Marmont's stage career started at the age of eight, when he played Charles Darnley in "The Tale of Two Cities." From that time till 1918 he played on the London stage in Shakespearean, Galsworthy and Masefield plays. His first smashing success in pictures came in his interpretation of Mark Saber in "If Winter Comes." Since, he has played in many successes, including "The Clean Heart," "The Light That Failed" and "Daddy Goes A-Hunting."

Although Griffith is the youngest member of the four he has been an actor as long as any. His first role was when he was only 15 months old. Since then he has been in the profession in some phase or another continuously; has played "Little Lord Fauntleroy," a girl in "Ten Nights in a Barroom," belonged to a French pantomime troupe, toured the United States with a circus and before acting in pictures was a comedy director and writer.

Mong, the fourth of the quartette, is a playwright as well as an actor. Before entering pictures he was on the stage for eighteen years. He has played in many successes, including the screen version of his own play, "The Clay Baker," "The Connecticut Yankee," "Thy Name is Woman" and "Excuse Me."

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1926.

T. J. Duffy Leaves State Office

Press dispatches today confirm The Review-Tribune's announcement early in the week that Thomas J. Duffy, of East Liverpool, chairman of the state industrial commission, will resign February 15 to enter the practice of law in Columbus. In his letter of resignation, forwarded to Gov. A. V. Donahey, he says, "I feel that in justice to my family, I should now endeavor to establish myself in some permanent business while I yet possess the strength and energy to do it, and not wait to be turned out of office when age has made it difficult and perhaps impossible for me successfully to take up anything else."

Duffy's retirement marks the end of a 15-year career in public life—a tenure of office much longer than that of the average public official. And his administration of the duties of membership on the industrial commission, of which he has been chairman for several years, has been one of honor to the state and himself.

The East Liverpool man stepped from the presidency of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, after serving with distinction for several years, to a place on the old board of awards in 1911, thanks to an appointment by Gov. Judson Harmon. When the board was abolished and the industrial commission created, Duffy was chosen for the four-year term by Gov. James M. Cox in 1913, and was re-appointed for the six-year term in 1917. In 1922 he was defeated for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by Gov. Donahey, only to be re-appointed to membership on the commission again in 1923. His term would expire in 1926. During his tenure, he studied law and was admitted to practice a few years ago. He has made repeated efforts to resign in the last two years, but Gov. Donahey and other friends urged him to retain the place.

He is a self-made man in every sense of the term. When a boy he worked in the Wheeling, W. Va., potteries, shouldering the burdens of head of the family when his father died. His ability soon attracted wide attention in the labor movement in which he was active. And at an early age he was elected secretary of the pottery workers' parent organization, serving under the administration of the late A. S. Hughes, for many years leader of the Brotherhood. Upon his death, Duffy was elected president.

He is admirably equipped for the duties of the legal profession. He has a keen mind, a broad knowledge of law and is an excellent orator. He should attain the high place in the legal profession that his exemplary life merits. And his East Liverpool friends join with his legion of acquaintances throughout Ohio in wishing him success.

Healthful Competition

It isn't necessary to poke fun at the Russian Soviet government for inviting a limited amount of private enterprise, in order to improve Communist business methods for forced competition. True, it is just as effective recognition of the principle of competition as if the Communists had thrown up their hands and turned everything over to competitive capitalism. But it is exactly what big private business is doing increasingly in this country.

Look how the tobacco and oil trusts have prospered since their dissolution by the government some years ago. Almost every one of their constituent elements alone has made more money than it did as part of a monopolistic organization.

One way of looking at this fact, and the usual way, has been to say that the trusts were not really "busted"—that their dissolution was only technical, and the component parts still operated practically as one system. There has been a good deal of that, no doubt, in the form of "gentlemen's agreements" and voluntary price-fixing and following the leader in the matter of prices. But along with this there has been a surprising amount of competition, resulting not only from the natural efforts of different organizations to make a good showing, but evidently from higher-up policy.

Competition, even in such a situation, proves itself "the life of trade," stimulating friendly rivalry of personnel, and promoting efficiency. Different brands of tobacco or gasoline often compete vigorously with each other, when the ultimate ownership and control is the same, to the profit of both brands.

The same thing is seen now in the automobile industry. Look at the different makes of cars competing for the market, produced by the same manufacturer. Each car is better for it, and each organization.

What pedestrians need is individual helicopters, to be carried like umbrellas, with which they could soar right up into the air to dodge an automobile.

Another thing that we got out of the war—expensive tastes.

This new-fangled campaign against noise won't work. Americans get too lonesome when it's quiet.

No, those floods in Flanders positively do not make British Tommies homesick for the war.

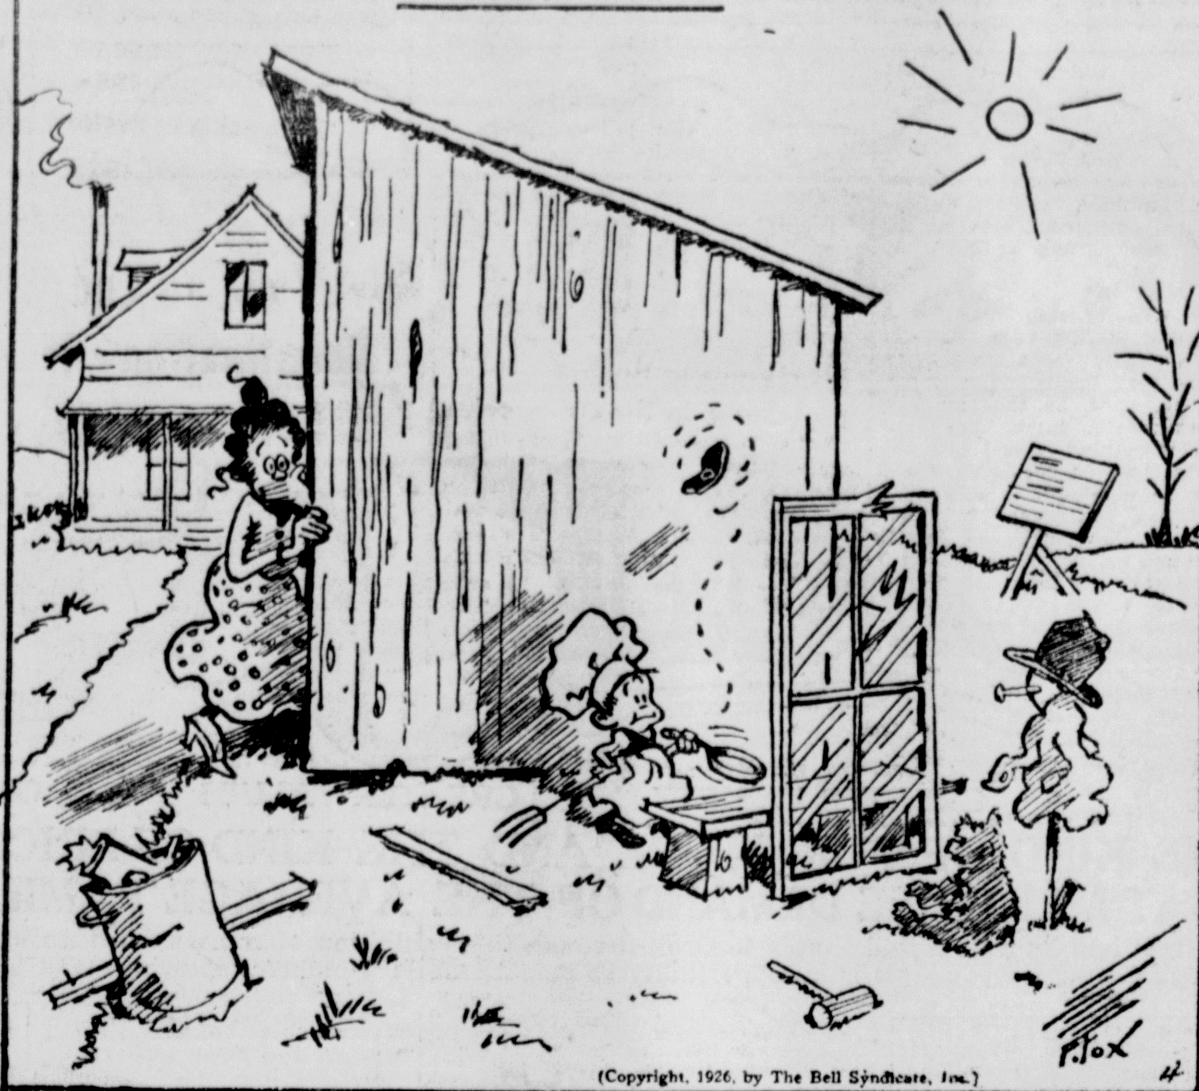

Diplomatic circles are wondering why Mussolini lets Vesuvius erupt.

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Ossining shivers when the Sing Sing siren sounds its shrill blast. Somewhere in the neighborhood is an escaped prisoner—usually desperate. In the outlying districts there are those who put food out at their doors in hope they will not be disturbed.

In the gloomy, gray prison the reaction to escape is not pleasant. It means the tightening of freedom and the curtailment of liberties. And if the prisoner is found and returned he is shunned. Most of the prison breaks are discovered around dusk at the evening line-up.

Frequently the siren means just another hide-out. A wretched inmate has secreted himself somewhere within the prison walls in defiance of consequence and inspired by a reckless faith for the more propitious moment for a complete get-away.

The hide-out is rarely if ever successful at Sing Sing. He has merely shorn himself of good behavior time off and invited the dungeon. When the siren sounds all roads to Ossining are patrolled by man hunters in groups and armed to kill.

The reward incites many to join the hunt but there is that touch in Ossining as in all humanity that hopes the prisoner once outside the walls will make good his escape. Otherwise honest men and women will often lend aid out of pure sympathy.

A pall of gloom also falls over the neighborhood at the midnight electrocutions just as it does in the prisons. Inmates with gruesome humor refer to the death house as "the hanging garden." But their sleep is fitful and not until the guard nods affirmatively to their whispered query "is it over?" does the prison sleep.

Outside the prison gates clot men and women impelled by an odd curiosity about death. They will stand for hours in the wind and rain merely to see the solemn electrocutioner depart in his car—the signal that the ghastly job is finished.

As prisons go, Old Ludlow was perhaps the most popular in the world. It was the detention house of the famous Alimony club—husbands who prefer the rather slight restrictions to paying out weekly alimony. Many scandals have resulted from men, supposed to be in their cells, being seen in the full effluence of the Broadway night with amiable guards.

In New York there was not an iota of stigma attached to a term in Ludlow. Some of the leading society men, authors, playwrights, writers, physicians and lawyers have served a sentence there. One was permitted to converse, stroll in a roomy courtyard, play games, send out for choice meals and wear regular clothes. Ludlow is to be torn down.

Hardened criminals take a short sentence lightly. A story is told of one sentenced to Sing Sing for two years. When his Moll came to tell him goodbye he said: "It's just a two year stretch up the river. Gee, I could do that on one ear."

I occasionally have dinner with a man who spent eight years in prison for forgery. He has, since his release, an eighteen year record for sobriety and honesty. He is successful. His wife knows his past and so does his daughter. Also people in his employ. He says he came out of prison improved in mind and body. He scotches the belief that prisoners are hounded. So far as he knows nothing was put in his way to prevent him from a useful career. Perhaps his own attitude may have something to do with it. He said: "I paid a just debt to society and I took my lesson seriously. I know a man simply cannot be happy if he is crooked."

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Kentucky's Niagara.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 4.—Whether hydro-electric development in the Kentucky mountains shall silence forever the thunder of Cumberland Falls is a question before the Federal Power Commission. Its discussion has brought to general notice a cataract, second in size to Niagara, in the east area of the Mississippi, and until recently was almost unknown save to readers of reference books.

It is so inaccessible that few Kentuckians, comparatively, have seen it. A thin stream of patrons of a summer hotel at the falls had trickled into the picturesque gorge of Cumberland river for almost a century, but to mention the falls in Louisville or Lexington is to find that scarcely anyone there has witnessed the plunge of the Cumberland over a ledge 68 feet from the level of the pool below it, and perhaps 120 feet above the hollowed bottom of the pool.

Cumberland river is 688 miles long. Between Nashville, Tennessee, and its entrance into the Ohio in Kentucky it is navigable the year round as a result of locks and dams. On the upper river within the boundaries of Kentucky it is navigable only in winter and spring save for 30 miles between Burnside, on the Southern railway's line from Cincinnati to Chattanooga, and Palace. The so-called Palace Pool, made by the single lock that has been built in Kentucky's section of the river, is navigable at all times. During summer, when only batteaux or canoes can be used between Palace and the Tennessee line, the Palace Pool holds impounded a small fleet of steamers which ply between the lock and the railroad, loaded with poultry and other farm produce from a section which the pool has developed by providing an outlet to markets.

The Cumberland's headwaters are in Looney creek, which flows through the mining town of Lynch, in Harlan county, Kentucky, about 2,000 feet above sea level. The Cumberland's mouth, after it runs a serpentine course through Tennessee, is in McCracken county, Kentucky, near Paducah. The river, when developed for slack water navigation between Nashville and Palace, will open to markets the produce of a group of contiguous Kentucky counties which are without railroads or improved highways and whose riches consist of fertile soil.

Because of a federal law under which power dams in non-navigable sections of partly navigable streams must not be built without a permit from the Federal Power Commission save at the risk that their removal, or disuse, will be forced by the federal government in the interest of navigation. It is necessary for the company which wishes to build dams below and above Cumberland Falls to secure the consent of the Federal Commission.

Wanted as State Park. When an Indianapolis corporation procured an option on the Cumberland Falls tract, of 2,400 acres, Kentucky had no State Park Commission. No movement looking to the creation of state parks had been inaugurated.

A State Park Commission was created by an act of the legislature. It was authorized to accept donations of areas suitable for reservation as state park. No money for purchasing land was provided. Under the law the state geologist was made chairman of the commission. The state geologist, Dr. Willard Rouse Jilison, published a book describing areas he deemed especially suitable for preservation as recreation ground. He included Cumberland Falls and said that its destruction by a power dam would be hardly less than tragedy.

Newspapers quoted Dr. Jilison's book. Advocates of conservation in Kentucky and elsewhere became interested. Champions of Cumberland Falls, most of whom never had seen the cataract, began pelting the Federal Power Commission with protests against a projected dam which would halt the stream above the falls and convey its waters through a flume along the mountain side to a point below the falls where they would generate power that would be transmitted to points outside of Kentucky, and used also, possibly, by plants, not now in existence, in the Cumberland Falls region.

Neither the members of the Federal Power Commission nor the executive secretary of that body, O. O. Merrill, had seen Cumberland Falls. Very few of the Kentucky editors who discussed the impending dam construction had seen the falls. Among those who were interested but who had not visited Cumberland Falls, was Tom Wallace, chief of the editorial staff of the Louisville Times, for many years an ardent advocate of forest conservation and fish and game conservation and interested in recent years in state parks.

Mr. Wallace, when the controversy as to the probable value of Cumberland Falls as recreation ground or as a power-maker, waxed warm, paid a visit to the falls and returned committed unreservedly to the view that a state park with the falls as its major attraction, including within its boundaries the wild gorge of the Cumberland, rich in a varied native flora, would be worth more to Kentucky than a dozen power dams.

Governor Against Power Project. Governor Fields, of Kentucky, has pledged himself to fight for the preservation of Cumberland Falls. Sundry conservation leaders who sympathize with Governor Fields have begun a new pelting of the Federal Power Commission.

Mr. Wallace, who came to Washington to see Mr. Merrill, executive secretary of the Federal Power Commission, and to invite the attention of the National Conference on Outdoor Recreation to the Cumberland Falls problem, expresses the opinion that there will be no power dam above the falls if Kentucky, or any organization in Kentucky, or elsewhere, can convince the Federal Power Commission that it will acquire the money with which to buy the tract now optioned to the Indianapolis corporation.

That an appropriation could be procured from the Kentucky legislature is not believed probable, but champions of conservation are proceeding with the hope of finding a way to raise the funds if they can convince the Federal Commission that Cumberland Falls and the Cumberland Gorge as a recreational area would be so valuable to Kentucky, in the course of time, that to permit a power dam to be built where it would obliterate the falls would be vandalism.

KIRBY'S 507 Market St. 385 PAIRS OF WOMEN'S BLACK KID LACE SHOES — ALL SIZES FRIDAY — SATURDAY 10c A PAIR

SIXTY-SIX.

Early in the evening, more than one guest at the Harwood ball remarked about the fact that Harry Yancey was not to be seen around Noble. It was strange, they thought, that the attorney was not playing his usual prominent part in whatever Noble Harwood

undertook. What had happened? Had Noble jealously relegated his cronies to the background, or had Harry, with unusual appropriateness, faded into insignificance of his own accord? It was something to talk about, anyway. The greeting given Mr. and Mrs. Harry Yancey when they arrived had been conventional. Noble had merely nodded to his friend as he shook hands. But a moment or two later he had managed to excuse himself from the receiving line and draw Harry into a private corner and whisper: "Where is she?" "I left her out at the lodge, good and drunk." Noble frowned. "Are you sure she won't wake up in time to re-cause some trouble?" "No chance; she is locked in." Mopping his brow, Noble went back to his wife and daughter. If only Yancey had gone to New York and headed off Lorraine Holly. Harry Yancey, after parting with Noble, went out on the lawn and lit a cigarette. He was hatless, but he had his Bedouin's cloak about him and did not feel the sharpness of the air. When he was sure he was not being observed, he walked back to the kitchen of the house, with which he was very well familiar. In the butler's office there was, he knew, a phone, which, with the door closed, would permit him to talk unheard. Louis was occupied elsewhere and he got in without being seen. Latching the door, he laid off his cloak, perspiring, took up the phone and called a room at the Grand Hotel.

"Hello, Miss H.? . . . This is Y., you know. Yes. Listen closely, for I'm not going to talk very loudly. I said, listen closely, for I am not going to talk very loudly. You understand?" Oh, Lord, he thought, how can a woman be so dumb. "Yes," he went on, "everything is as I told you in the air. Now, listen. You're to do exactly as I told you. No rough stuff, and don't miss any of your cues. You're to let him see you, but at the moment when I can grab you and take you out. Yes. You're sure you understand?" Harry Yancey had gone over this role with Lorraine Holly many times, but he still had his doubts about her ability to play it. He was a little sorry because of her "dumbness."

"Time yourself carefully," he went on. "The main entrance. Use the invitation I gave you. Let me remind you again, girlie, that he's the big boss in this town, and that if you make any slips and break any glasses, he can do you a powerful lot of harm. And he will. He's that kind."

Harry Yancey's plan was simple. He was going to scare Noble and get some easy money for himself. At the eleventh hour, he would seize Lorraine and take her away from the ball, as she was about to throw herself into Noble's arms, and manage to get a big check from the millionaire which he would split half way and possibly two shares for himself.

He had lost some of his original confidence in the plan, originally conceived in a spirit of revenge, and he was a little doubtful of its success, because of the low intelligence of the woman—what in the world Noble had ever seen in her he didn't know—but with himself in the mess, he had to get out. Having wired her, and got her to Central City, he had to get her out of town without her really doing any damage to Noble.

Carefully readjusting his cloak, and

"Where in the devil have you been?" she greeted him. "What in the devil do you mean leaving me standing here like a fool?"

Harry shrugged as he swung her into a dance.

In room 756 of the Grand Hotel, Lorraine Holly, dancer, surveyed herself for a seventh time in the mirror, and carefully readjusted her costume. She turned toward the door, and, for the fourth time, paused as she was about to open it, to return to a bottle which reposed in a drawer in the dresser.

Already what she was to do was rather hazy in her mind. As she poured herself a drink of the contents of the bottle she mumbled to herself, "Thanks he can tell me, does he? Huh. He ain't so smart."

Each family in the congregation had been assigned ten hymns.

Human Engine Need Repairs

When you start on a journey, do you ever stop to think about the vast amount of work that had to be done on the engine that pulls the train and makes it possible for you to go? It must be working properly in every detail because if it isn't, you cannot take the trip. It must be inspected thorough before each trip for if any little thing is amiss the results may be dangerous.

The human body is very much like the engine for if you wish to take your trip through life in safety you must have each part working properly. Mr. Fred Jackson, 912 Morris street, Charleston, W. Va., who has been employed by the New York Central railroad for eight years, found that his body was running behind schedule so he went into the shop for repairs.

He says: "I had reached the place where I realized something must be done. For ten years I suffered with indigestion and kidney trouble. I saw Ka-di-ok advertised and I thought perhaps it was just what I needed. It proved to be just the remedy I needed to build me up and I gratefully recommend it to my friends. Get a bottle today and give it a fair trial and you will be surprised how quickly it works. Ka-di-ok is sold in East Liverpool at Mathews' Cut Rate Store and other drug stores."

Now You Can End Constipation In 10 Days or Less

W Mean the Chronic Kind—The Habitual Kind That Calls for Daily Purging—Guaranteed, Too.

Now what do you think, good folks? Remember we told you the other day in this paper about McCoy's Rinolin and how in ten days it would conquer the most stubborn kind of constipation and after that the bowels would function normally and regularly.

Remember how we invited all who wanted to get rid of constipation and that vicious habit of taking salts and violent cathartics to go to C. G. Anderson or Mathews' Medicine Store, or any drug store and get a bottle of Rinolin with the distinct understanding that it would do just what we said it would do or money back.

A whole lot of people must read this paper, because hardly before the ink is dry on our notice of invitation druggists in this city and towns nearby commenced to have a brick demand for this effective Emulsion.

And the best of all—according to the druggists—everyone who bought seems satisfied and of course they are, for McCoy's Rinolin was tried on thousands of slaves of habitual constipation before it was offered direct thru druggists to the people. And how do you thing it established regular bowel movements? The answer is simple; it overcomes the chronic condition by thoroughly cleaning the walls of the intestines of all accumulated deposits and toxins which prevented active and normal peristalsis—no other preparations have been able to do this.

Besides that—it lubricated and put tone into the entire intestinal track so that it will be many a day before these now happy people will think of purgatives again.

Without active peristalsis, the bowels cannot function properly—McCoy's Linolin increases the peristaltic action. Rinolin tonight—Pep tomorrow.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1926.

T. J. Duffy Leaves State Office

Press dispatches today confirm The Review-Tribune's announcement early in the week that Thomas J. Duffy, of East Liverpool, chairman of the state industrial commission, will resign February 15 to enter the practice of law in Columbus. In his letter of resignation, forwarded to Gov. A. V. Donahey, he says, "I feel that in justice to my family, I should now endeavor to establish myself in some permanent business while I yet possess the strength and energy to do it, and not wait to be turned out of office when age has made it difficult and perhaps impossible for me successfully to take up anything else."

Duffy's retirement marks the end of a 15-year career in public life—a tenure of office much longer than that of the average public official. And his administration of the duties of membership on the industrial commission, of which he has been chairman for several years, has been one of honor to the state and himself.

The East Liverpool man stepped from the presidency of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, after serving with distinction for several years, to a place on the old board of awards in 1911, thanks to an appointment by Gov. Judson Harmon. When the board was abolished and the industrial commission created, Duffy was chosen for the four-year term by Gov. James M. Cox in 1913, and was re-appointed for the six-year term in 1917. In 1922 he was defeated for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by Gov. Donahey, only to be re-appointed to membership on the commission again in 1923. His term would expire in 1926. During his tenure, he studied law and was admitted to practice a few years ago. He has made repeated efforts to resign in the last two years, but Gov. Donahey and other friends urged him to retain the place.

He is a self-made man in every sense of the term. When a boy he worked in the Wheeling, W. Va., potteries, shouldering the burdens of head of the family when his father died. His ability soon attracted wide attention in the labor movement in which he was active. And at an early age he was elected secretary of the pottery workers' parent organization, serving under the administration of the late A. S. Hughes, for many years leader of the Brotherhood. Upon his death, Duffy was elected president.

He is admirably equipped for the duties of the legal profession. He has a keen mind, a broad knowledge of law and is an excellent orator. He should attain the high place in the legal profession that his exemplary life merits. And his East Liverpool friends join with his legion of acquaintances throughout Ohio in wishing him success.

Healthful Competition

It isn't necessary to poke fun at the Russian Soviet government for inviting a limited amount of private enterprise, in order to improve Communist business methods for forced competition. True, it is just as effective recognition of the principle of competition as if the Communists had thrown up their hands and turned everything over to competitive capitalism. But it is exactly what big private business is doing increasingly in this country.

Look how the tobacco and oil trusts have prospered since their dissolution by the government some years ago. Almost every one of their constituent elements alone has made more money than it did as part of a monopolistic organization.

One way of looking at this fact, and the usual way, has been to say that the trusts were not really "busted"—that their dissolution was only technical, and the component parts still operated practically as one system. There has been a good deal of that, no doubt, in the form of "gentlemen's agreements" and voluntary price-fixing and following the leader in the matter of prices. But along with this there has been a surprising amount of competition, resulting not only from the natural efforts of different organizations to make a good showing, but evidently from higher-up policy.

Competition, even in such a situation, proves itself "the life of trade," stimulating friendly rivalry of personnel, and promoting efficiency. Different brands of tobacco or gasoline often compete vigorously with each other, when the ultimate ownership and control is the same, to the profit of both brands.

The same thing is seen now in the automobile industry. Look at the different makes of cars competing for the market, produced by the same manufacturer. Each car is better for it, and each organization.

What pedestrians need is individual helicopters, to be carried like umbrellas, with which they could soar right up into the air to dodge an automobile.

Another thing that we got out of the war—expensive tastes.

This new-fangled campaign against noise won't work. Americans get too lonesome when it's quiet.

No, those floods in Flanders positively do not make British Tommies homesick for the war.

Diplomatic circles are wondering why Mussolini lets Vesuvius erupt.

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Ossining shivers when the Sing Sing siren sounds its shrill blast. Somewhere in the neighborhood is an escaped prisoner—usually desperate. In the outlying districts there are those who put food out at their doors in hope they will not be disturbed.

In the gloomy, gray prison the reaction to escape is not pleasant. It means the tightening of freedom and the curtailment of liberties. And if the prisoner is found and returned he is shunned. Most of the prison breaks are discovered around dusk at the evening line-up.

Frequently the siren means just another hide-out. A wretched inmate has secreted himself somewhere within the prison walls in defiance of consequence and inspired by a reckless faith for the more propitious moment for a complete get-away.

The hide-out is rarely if ever successful at Sing Sing. He has merely shorn himself of good behavior time off and invited the dungeon. When the siren sounds all roads to Ossining are patrolled by man hunters in groups and armed to kill.

The reward incites many to join the hunt but there is that touch in Ossining as in all humanity that hopes the prisoner once outside the walls will make good his escape. Otherwise honest men and women will often lend aid out of pure sympathy.

A pall of gloom also falls over the neighborhood at the midnight electrocutions just as it does in the prison. Inmates with gruesome humor refer to the death house as "the hanging garden." But their sleep is fitful and not until the guard nods affirmatively to their whispered query "Is it over?" does the prison sleep.

Outside the prison gates clot men and women impelled by an odd curiosity about death. They will stand for hours in the wind and rain merely to see the solemn electrocutioner depart in his car—the signal that the ghastly job is finished.

As prisons go, Old Ludlow was perhaps the most popular in the world. It was the detention house of the famous Alimony club—husbands who prefer the rather slight restrictions to paying out weekly alimony. Many scandals have resulted from men, supposed to be in their cells, being seen in the full effulgence of the Broadway night with amiable guards. In New York there was not an iota of stigma attached to a term in Ludlow. Some of the leading society men, authors, playwrights, writers, physicians and lawyers have served a sentence there. One was permitted to converse, stroll in a roomy courtyard, play games, send out for choice meals and wear regular clothes. Ludlow is to be torn down.

I occasionally have dinner with a man who spent eight years in prison for forgery. He has, since his release, an eighteen year record for sobriety and honesty. He is successful. His wife knows his past and so does his daughter. Also people in his employ. He says he came out of prison improved in mind and body. He scratches the belief that prisoners are hounded. So far as he knows nothing was put in his way to prevent him from a useful career. Perhaps his own attitude may have something to do with it. He said: "I paid a just debt to society and I took my lesson seriously. I know a man simply cannot be happy if he is crooked."

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Kentucky's Niagara.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 4.—Whether hydro-electric development in the Kentucky mountains shall silence forever the thunder of Cumberland Falls is a question before the Federal Power Commission. Its discussion has brought to general notice a cataract, second in size to Niagara in the area east of the Mississippi, and until recently was almost unknown save to readers of reference books.

It is so inaccessible that few Kentuckians, comparatively, have seen it. A thin stream of patrons of a summer hotel at the falls has trickled into the picturesque gorge of Cumberland river for almost a century, but to mention the falls in Louisville or Lexington is to find that scarcely anyone there has witnessed the plunge of the Cumberland over a ledge 68 feet from the level of the pool below it, and perhaps 120 feet above the hollowed bottom of the pool.

Cumberland river is 688 miles long. Between Nashville, Tennessee, and its entrance into the Ohio in Kentucky it is navigable the year round as a result of locks and dams. On the upper river within the boundaries of Kentucky it is navigable only in winter and spring save for 30 miles between Burnside, on the Southern railway's line from Cincinnati to Chattanooga, and Palace. The so-called Palace Pool, made by the single lock that has been built in Kentucky's section of the river, is navigable at all times. During summer when only batteaux or canoes can be used between Palace and the Tennessee line, the Palace Pool holds impounded a small fleet of steamers which ply between the lock and the railroad, loaded with poultry and other farm produce from a section which the pool has developed by providing an outlet to markets.

The Cumberland's headwaters are in Looney creek, which flows through the mining town of Lynch, in Harlan county, Kentucky, about 2,000 feet above sea level. The Cumberland's mouth, after it runs a serpentine course through Tennessee, is in McCracken county, Kentucky, near Paducah. The river, when developed for slack water navigation between Nashville and Palace, will open to markets the produce of a group of contiguous Kentucky counties which are without railroads or improved highways and whose riches consist of fertile soil.

Because of a federal law under which power dams in non-navigable sections of partly navigable streams may not be built without a permit from the Federal Power Commission save at the risk that their removal, or disuse, will be forced by the federal government in the interest of navigation, it is necessary for the company which wishes to build dams below and above Cumberland Falls to secure the consent of the Federal Commission.

When an Indianapolis corporation procured an option on the Cumberland Falls tract, of 2,400 acres, Kentucky had no State Park Commission. No movement looking to the creation of state parks had been inaugurated.

Any kind of a headache is relieved in two minutes. Distress and pain vanish, your head clears and you are again ready for work or play. Druggists sell millions of "Dr. James' Headache Powders" because they are safe.

A State Park Commission was created by an act of the legislature. It was authorized to accept donations of areas suitable for reservation as state park. No money for purchasing land was provided. Under the law the state geologist was made chairman of the commission. The state geologist, Dr. Willard Rouse Jilison, published a book describing areas he deemed especially suitable for preservation as recreation ground. He included Cumberland Falls and said that its destruction by a power dam would be hardly less than tragedy.

Newspapers quoted Dr. Jilison's book. Advocates of conservation in Kentucky and elsewhere became interested. Champions of Cumberland Falls, most of whom never had seen the cataract, began pelting the Federal Power Commission with protests against a projected dam which would cut off the stream above the falls and convey its waters through a flume along the mountain side to a point below the falls where they would generate power that would be transmitted to points outside of Kentucky, and used also, possibly, by plants, not now in existence, in the Cumberland Falls region.

Balmwort Brought Lasting Relief

INWOOD PARK, L. I. N. Y.: Daniel M. Wert, 2 Maple Road, writes: "I am a carpenter and most of my work is outside. Am 50 years old and I have had trouble with my kidneys and had pains in my groin for 3 years before I got any relief. My anatomy then told me about Balmwort tablets from which she had found relief. I have used 3 boxes and am feeling fine—no trouble the last 3 months. I used to have to get out of bed 6 and 7 times a night and could never lie on my back. I could not sleep, and was followed by a burning and often a profuse flow with chills, etc."

Sulphurb Cleared Up Skin Trouble

MOBERLY, MO., Miss M. A. Brower, Lock Box 577, writes: "I saw your 'Answers to Health Questions' in the St. Louis Post Dispatch and a case similar to mine. Itching skin, rash and blotches, and procured a box of Sulphurb tablets at once. Have taken 4 packages and there is a wonderful change. For itching, rash and blotches have disappeared."

Cadomene Improves Weight-Strength

MILWAUKEE, WIS., Mrs. Hilton Roeder, 135 Third St., writes: "First of all I want to thank you for the wonderful results I got from taking Cadomene tablets. I was very nervous, run-down and weak; could hardly do my housework. A friend recommended Cadomene and I am now taking my third box, and I must say I am feeling just fine, have gained eleven pounds in the last month, can do all of my work and do not feel a bit tired. Etc."

Children Like Menth-Laxene

CHICAGO, ILL., Mrs. Milton Adams, 706 West 82nd St., writes: "I want to let you know in just a few words that Menth-Laxene is certainly the most healing, soothing cough syrup ever on the market. I am never without it. I have 3 children and when there are kiddies, one must always be in readiness for a cold and cough. The first thing my children ask for when they begin to cough is Menth-Laxene. It is wonderful the way it relieves and how soon it works, and I am always passing the good word on, etc."

METHUSELAH'S WIFE
BY EDGAR DOUGLAS
SIXTY-SIX.
Early in the evening, more than one guest at the Harwood ball remarked about the fact that Harry Yancey was not to be seen around Noble. It was strange, they thought, that the attorney was not playing his usual prominent part in whatever Noble Harwood undertook. What had happened? Had Noble jealously relegated his cronies to the background, or had Harry, with unusual appropriateness, faded into insignificance of his own accord? It was something to talk about, anyway.

The greeting given Mr. and Mrs. Harry Yancey when they arrived had been conventional. Noble had merely nodded to his friend as he shook hands. But a moment or two later he had managed to excuse himself from the receiving line and draw Harry into a private corner and whisper: "Where is she?"
"I left her out at the lodge, good and drunk." Noble frowned. "Are you sure she won't wake up in time to re- cause some trouble?"

"No chance; she is locked in."
Mopping his brow, Noble went back to his wife and daughter. If only Yancey had gone to New York and headed off Lorraine Holly.
Harry Yancey, after parting with Noble, went out on the lawn and lit a cigarette. He was restless, but he had his Bedouin's cloak about him and did not feel the sharpness of the air. When he was sure he was not being observed, he walked back to the kitchen of the house, with which he was very well familiar. In the butler's office there was, he knew, a phone, which, with the door closed, would permit him to talk unheard. Louis was occupied elsewhere and he got in without being seen. Latching the door, he laid off his cloak, perspiring, took up the phone and called a room at the Grand Hotel.
"Hello, Miss H.? ... This is Y., you know. Yes. Listen closely, for I'm not going to talk very loudly. I said, listen closely, for I am not going to talk very loudly. You understand?" Oh, Lord, he thought, how can a woman be so dumb. "Yes," he went on, "everything is as I told you. Now, listen. You're to do exactly as I told you. No rough stuff, and don't miss any of your cues. You're to let him see you, but at the moment when I can grab you and take you out. Yes. You're sure you understand?" Harry Yancey had gone over this role with Lorraine Holly many times, but he still had his doubts about her ability to play it. He was a little sorry because of her "dumbness."

"Time yourself carefully," he went on. "The main entrance. Use the invitation I gave you. Let me remind you again, girlie, that he's the big boss in this town, and that if you make any slips and break any glasses, he can do you a powerful lot of harm. And he will. He's that kind."
Harry Yancey's plan was simple. He was going to scare Noble and garner some easy money for himself. At the eleventh hour, he would seize Lorraine and take her away from the ball, as she was about to throw herself into Noble's arms, and manage to get a big check from the millionaire which he would split half way and possibly two shares for himself.
He had lost some of his original confidence in the plan, originally conceived in a spirit of revenge, and he was a little doubtful of its success, because of the low intelligence of the woman—what in the world Noble had ever seen in her he didn't know—but with himself in the mess, he had to get out. Having wired her, and got her to Central City, he had to get her out of town without her really doing any damage to Noble.
Carefully readjusting his cloak, and

putting his mask at hand, he went back around the house, and sought his wife upon the floor.
"Where in the devil have you been?" she greeted him. "What in the devil do you mean leaving me standing here like a fool?"
Harry shrugged as he swung her into a dance.
In room 756 of the Grand Hotel, Lorraine Holly, dancer, surveyed herself for a seventh time in the mirror, and carefully readjusted her costume. She turned toward the door, and, for the fourth time, paused as she was about to open it, to return to a bottle which reposed in a drawer in the dresser.
Already what she was to do was rather hazy in her mind. As she poured herself a drink of the contents of the bottle she mumbled to herself, "Thinks he can tell me, does he? Huh. He ain't so smart."

Redlands, Cal.—All the hymns in the standard hymn book of the Methodist Episcopal church were read, recited or sung in the Methodist Episcopal church at Yucalpa during an eleven-hour period. Each family in the congregation had been assigned ten hymns.

SHE WAS AFRAID TO SLEEP
"For a year I was afraid to sleep because of (from stomach) collected once a week and have not been bothered since." (signed) Mrs. E. Cole, Adierka removes gas in TEN minutes and brings out old waste matter you never thought was in your system. It is such an excellent intestinal evacuant that it is wonderful for constipation and allied stomach trouble. Stops that full, bloated feeling and makes you happy and cheerful. Human Engine Need Repairs
When you start on a journey, do you ever stop to think about the vast amount of work that had to be done on the engine that pulls the train and makes it possible for you to go? It must be working properly in every detail because if it isn't, you cannot take the trip. It must be inspected thorough before each trip for if any little thing is amiss the results may be dangerous.
The human body is very much like the engine for if you wish to take your trip through life in safety you must have each part working properly. Mr. Fred Jackson, 912 Morris street, Charleston, W. Va., who has been employed by the New York Central railroad for eight years, found that his body was running behind schedule so he went into the shop for repairs.
He says: "I had reached the place where I realized something must be done. For ten years I suffered with indigestion and kidney trouble. I saw Kad-ik advertised and I thought perhaps it was just what I needed. It proved to be just the remedy I needed to build me up and I gratefully recommend it to my friends. Get a bottle today and give it a fair trial and you will be surprised how quickly it works. Kad-ik is sold in East Liverpool at Mathews' Cut Rate Store and other drug stores."

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole
Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.
Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.
Rub it on with your fingertips. First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.
To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Now You Can End Constipation In 10 Days or Less
We Mean the Chronic Kind—The Habitual Kind That Calls for Daily Purging—Guaranteed, Too.
Now what do you think, good folks? Remember we told you the other day in this paper about McCoy's Rinolin and how in ten days it would conquer the most stubborn kind of constipation and after that the bowels would function normally and regularly.
Remember how we invited all who wanted to get rid of constipation and that vicious habit of taking salts and violent cathartics to go to C. G. Anderson or Mathews' Medicine Store, or any drug store and get a bottle of Rinolin with the distinct understanding that it would do just what we said it would do or money back.
A whole lot of people must read this paper, because hardly before the ink is dry on our notice of invitation druggists in this city and towns nearby commenced to have a brisk demand for this effective Emulsion.
And the best of all—according to the druggists—everyone who bought seems satisfied and of course they are, for McCoy's Rinolin was tried on thousands of slaves of habitual constipation before it was offered direct thru druggists to the people. And how do you thing it established regular bowel movements? The answer is simple; it overcomes the chronic condition by thoroughly cleaning the walls of the intestines of all accumulated deposits and toxins which prevented active and normal peristalsis—no other preparations have been able to do this.
Besides that—it lubricated and put tone into the entire intestinal track so that it will be many a day before these now happy people will think of purgatives again.
Without active peristalsis, the bowels cannot function properly—McCoy's Linolin increases the peristaltic action. Rinolin tonight—Pep tomorrow.

Think of it—a pure gentle soap—that launders all things perfectly—and actually benefits your hands every time you use it because it includes a natural skin tonic.

These things cost a lot of money, too. Isn't it wise to use this safe soap that gives them extra life?

CORPORATION TAX SUITS PLANNED

Efforts to collect about $100,000 due from corporations in license taxes will be started at once, Auditor John C. Bond has announced. These taxes were due July 1, but the auditor's books show that 1,481 corporations still are delinquent.

Two remedies are available. Suit may be brought in the Kanawha county courts to compel the delinquent companies to quit business or they may be prosecuted criminally.

Whenever a company fails to pay the license tax promptly, a second notice is sent by the auditor. If that is ignored, the corporation is certified as delinquent to the governor, who then issues a proclamation to the offender to discontinue business until the tax is paid. A list of such delinquents was prepared and proclamations were sent out by the governor last November, Auditor Bond says.

Against those who failed to pay since November and up to February 1 the attorney general is required by law to file suit to compel them to discontinue business until the tax is paid. The criminal provision has not been invoked heretofore, but will be this year, says the auditor, if the delinquent companies do not pay promptly.

To Attend Meeting.

Sol McCoy and Joseph Dickey will represent the Homer Laughlin China club baseball team at the meeting of the Industrial league tonight in the club rooms of the chamber of commerce in East Liverpool. Plans will be discussed for the coming season.

Lodge Members To Meet.

Regular meeting of Clark lodge No. 477, I. O. O. F., will be held tomorrow night in their rooms in the Aaron building, Fifth street. Routine business will be transacted.

It also is designed to make credit information on doubtful risks almost immediately available in sections of the state on call.

New Magic of ARIUM—Radium in Tablets—Without Drugs—Bring
Amazing and Lasting Relief to Sufferers—Test It Yourself.

"$5,000.00 REWARD IF IT FAILS"

If you are one of the thousands who are still needlessly suffering untold agony from sharp stabbing pains or the dull, dead ache which never seems to leave you—if you are steadily losing your youth and usefulness under the terrific torture of sciatica, lumbago, arthritis, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia or gout, you owe it to yourself to try ARIUM at once.

Doctors and hospital authorities, and men and women in every walk of life, stand absolutely amazed at the way it so quickly reduces inflammation, thereby giving lasting relief from pain. Dr. A. R. of Texas reports: "Remarkable success in cases of rheumatism of years standing." Dr. R. V. B. of Utah says: "I have used ARIUM in a chronic and very obstinate case of neuritis and according to the patient's own statement, he has derived more benefit from these tablets than from anything he has ever used before." Mrs. J. A. S. of Montana says: "I know that ARIUM has saved my life. It is wonderful for rheumatism."

ARIUM actually helps in a definite way to remove the real cause of rheumatism by dissolving the salts which have crystallized and hardened on the nerve fibres. By holding these salts in solution and thus preventing them from depositing on the bones the action of ARIUM has proven little short of miraculous—even in seemingly hopeless cases. A multitude of alarming symptoms quickly disappear. You see and feel a truly startling improvement in yourself each day.

The Associated Radium Chemists, Inc., of New York, which supplies druggists with ARIUM, guarantees successful and satisfactory results in every case from its progressive use or money refunded, and offers a $5,000.00 reward if it fails to prove that a definite quantity of genuine radium is used in its preparation. ARIUM is easy and economical to take and may be readily obtained in this city from any good druggist who can easily get it for you if he has none in stock.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL
AT THE AGE OF 63

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he constantly advised mothers to give only a harmless laxative which would help to establish natural bowel "regularity."

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin mothers have a regulating laxative which they can depend upon whenever a child is constipated, bilious, feverish or sick from a cold, indigestion or sour stomach. All children love its pleasant taste.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself how perfectly it cleanses and regulates the bowels of infants and children.

Part of Limited Arable Acreage Reserved to Raise Foodstuffs.

Washington.—Cotton, Egypt's chief crop, is to be restricted during 1926. According to recent dispatches from Cairo, a law has just been placed in effect in Egypt which will prohibit the planting of more than one-third of the arable land with cotton this year.

"The statute directs attention to peculiar physical features of the land of the Pharaohs," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society. "For, although Egypt cuts a big notch in the map of northern Africa, only a narrow strip along 900 miles of the River Nile is arable or habitable. In an area which is about equal to that of Maryland, more than nine times Maryland's population, or some 13,000,000 people, must be fed.

"It is necessary, therefore, for the government to enact stringent regulations concerning the use of this land. Tobacco growing is prohibited. Farming land is much too precious to be used for luxuries, especially for such soil-enslaving luxuries as tobacco. Egypt has many cigarette factories and its cigarette makers are skilled in curing and blending tobacco, but the leaf is obtained elsewhere, generally from the Levant, or from the islands of the Aegean archipelago.

"Egypt, as has so often been said, is the 'gift of the Nile.' The life of the country, its trade, its foreign contacts, and even the character of its inhabitants have been molded to meet the capacities and the whims of this great stream. No country in the world is so dependent on a river. Without the Nile Egypt would cease to exist as a fertile country.

The Egyptian Type.
The desert, however, has been a co-star with the Nile in the Egyptian spectacle of the ages. Cloudless blue skies, powerful sunlight, and dry, warm air have given Egyptian climate a uniformity especially suited to the formation of definite types. Domestic animals, in particular, give proof of its transforming influence. Oxen, often exterminated by murrain, have been replenished by foreign breeds from every part of the globe, and in a few generations almost invariably assume the well-known Egyptian type, familiar from the paintings and hieroglyphics of ancient tombs and temples.

"The natives, too, have changed little. Despite a turbulent political career in the last few centuries, during the course of which Egypt has been jockeyed from one European power to another, the great mass of the population is little different from the builders of the Pyramids. Today they speak Arabic and profess Mohammed as their prophet, but they still revere the Nile, and they still irrigate their fields with its waters after the same fashion as the subjects of King Menes, 4000 B. C.

"While the Nile brought many gifts to the ancient Egyptians it was far from a perfectly behaved river. Usually it spilled over its banks once a year, flooded the adjacent lowlands and left new layers of highly fertile soil for the year's crops. Then the Egyptians brought thanksgiving offerings to their gods. At other times the river was low. Crops were burnt up by the pitiless glare of the sun before the life-giving fluid could be brought to them. Still again the Nile was a raging flood driving all before it.

"Irrigation works developed by the English, however, have made large-scale plantings possible today. Great dams and barrages thrown across the Nile valley hold the spring rains of the southern mountains and distribute them more evenly throughout the year. Under European leadership and ingenuity Egypt has progressed agriculturally from a rather forbidding land, farmed only when naturally fertile, to a smiling ribbon of farms and plantations. Each year additional fingers of water encroach on the sun-glazed domains of the desert, fingers which transform it at a touch into luxuriant growths of green and gold and russet vegetation.

"The area watered by the Nile is thus being increased from an original acreage of a little more than 5,000,000 to nearly 8,000,000 acres. Tendrils of steel are following in the wake of those of water, in order that crops may be marketed readily. Egypt already possesses 8,000 miles of railroad, extending along the Mediterranean coast and up the Nile to the First Cataract. It is connected with the railway system of Europe and Asia by a line across the Sinai peninsula, the route of the famous train known as 'The Milk and Honey Express.'

"Cotton, the commercial staple of the country and the subject of the new regulatory law, is the foundation and backbone of the prosperity which the English administration brought to Egypt. The Nile delta was found to be one of the most favorable cotton-growing regions in the world. Enthusiasm cotton planters and retailers of Egypt claim that their product is the finest in the world. Egyptian cotton is cream-colored or brownish, while American is white. It is said to be more silky and more easily mercerized than that of the Southern States.

DON'T GET UP NIGHTS

John Lumpkins, Dayton, Ohio, says: "Come to 7 Carrie St., and I will show you 25 pieces of gravel that passed after taking Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula). Had to get up 15 times at night for two years. Alright Now." Lithiated Buchu cleanses the bladder like Epsom Salts do the bowels, thereby relieving irritation, driving out foreign matter and neutralizing excessive acids. These are the causes of unnatural action of the bladder at night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) is not a cheap medicine. The tablets cost 2 cents each. Sold at leading drug stores, or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at J. D. Holloway, druggist.

Close Competition Marks Offering of Three Million Issue.

Close competition marked the eight bids submitted yesterday for $3,000,000 worth of West Virginia state road bonds, with that of a group headed by the National City company of New York giving slightly the best terms for the state. So close were the proposals that while the winning bid was equivalent to an interest rate of 4.2097 per cent on the whole issue, that of another group headed by the First National Bank of New York was the equivalent of a 4.21 rate. The National City group's bid was for $1,400,000 worth of 4 1/2 per cent bonds maturing in 1935 and 1936 and $1,600,000 worth of 4 per cent bonds maturing in 1936, 1937 and 1938. On this basis they offered par and accrued interest, plus a premium of $213. Associated with the National City company were Har-

Iron with Cod Liver Oil Makes Weak Child Strong

New Easy-to-Take Tablet Form Builds Him Up Quickly

When your child "outgrows his strength" or is weakened by illness he should be given remedies known as "food tonics" to rebuild solid flesh and produce rich red blood. For this purpose, physicians prescribe cod liver oil and iron. Chemists now extract the vitamins and flesh-building elements from cod liver oil and throw the nasty, useless oil away. They combine these extracts with blood-building iron in easy-to-take tablet form.

To get the genuine, specify Burke's Cod Liver Oil and Iron Tablets at the drug store. You'll soon have cause to be proud of the sturdy, energetic, well-nourished condition of your youngster.

Says His Prescription

Has Powerful Influence

Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenhu, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed Matthews Original Cut Rate Store and druggists everywhere to dispense Allenhu with the understanding that if his prescription does not banish every sign and symptom of the disease he will gladly return your money without comment.

Active Glands Gave Napoleon Fighting Force

ACCORDING to a noted scientist, who has analyzed the action of the glands, Napoleon, one of the greatest fighters of all history, owed his courage and fighting force to large and extremely active adrenal glands.

Not only have the glands an important influence on the mind and character of the individual, but they also largely control health, energy and vitality, and it is by maintaining the normal functioning of the glands that we may combat sickness and ill health, according to eminent scientists and physicians of this country and Europe.

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, which is prepared in convenient tablet form, for men and for women, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment. Accept no substitutes. Insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed.

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

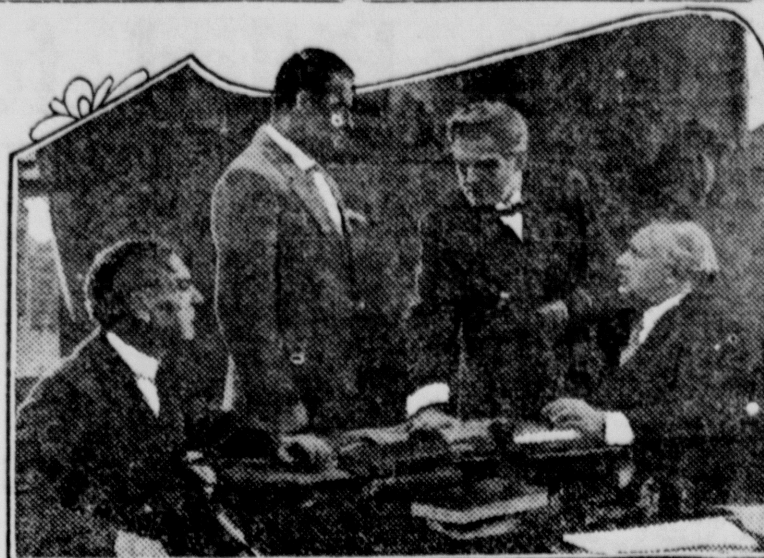

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointment and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonard, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1,000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at C. G. Anderson's, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

German Women Urged to Use U. S. Methods

Berlin.—The prevailing method of American women in conducting their households has been recommended to German women by Frau Clara Mende, one of Germany's foremost woman parliamentarians and closely identified with the National Association of German Housekeepers.

"Economy of time and strength" is the keynote of American housekeeping, Frau Mende found on a visit to the United States, and she would have her German sisters modify and adapt their methods to the exigencies of life in modern Germany.

"The German woman is the most conservative housekeeper in the world," she said, "but she is still conducting her household along precisely the same lines as did her mother and grandmother. She is unmindful of the fact that changed conditions demand changed methods."

Tough Pair of Contests Billed for High Five This Week

Girard Here Friday, Warren On Saturday

Mrs. Mast's Lassies Face Hardest Game of Season in Clash With Warren Girls; Irondale High and Local Reserves to Put on Preliminary to Engagement with Dave Williams' Outfit.

A PAIR of the toughest engagements coming together in any one week of the season's schedule constitutes the basketball assignment for Lorah's Blue and White passers for Friday and Saturday night.

The locals are billed to tangle with Dave Williams' Girard outfit on Friday night and will take on Warren on Saturday. Both engagements will be staged on the local court.

The Warren girls will play Mrs. Hazel Mast's lassies in the Saturday preliminary and this game, coupled with the main go between the boys, helps to make the card for the night one of the most promising of the year.

Despite an unbroken series of reversals this year, Mrs. Mast's girls have lost none of their spirit and will be out on the court Saturday night fighting as determinedly as ever against a team probably the peer of any they've encountered this season.

If Lorah's lads can pull out with victories over both Girard and Warren, the achievement will be worth boasting. Williams, at Girard, has a team of veterans, including several of his last fall's football stars, among them a halfback rated as one of the best in the state.

Warren is rapidly developing into one of the foremost schools, in athletics, at least, in the eastern section of Ohio. They are completing a new athletic plant there as a sort of testimonial to the school's growing prowess.

In the preliminary to the Friday game with Girard, the local Reserves will clash with Irondale high, the game being scheduled for 7:15.

LIVERPOOL, England, Feb. 4.—The Grand National—the world's most famous steeplechase—which will be run at Aintree on March 26 will be an international affair this year.

"Sergeant Murphy," the veteran owned by "Laddie" Sanford, of New York, will not start, but the Sanford stable will be represented by Mount Etna and Bright's Boy.

France will be represented by Lantaret, a 14-year-old gelding which is well fancied.

The Irish sportsmen are placing their hopes on Koko, an eight-year-old, that has been doing nicely in the winter flat racing in England.

Ruddy glow, which has been the favorite English candidate, has not been entered.

Some of the veteran favorites are entered, including Master Robert, a 25-1 winner of two years ago, Silvio, Old Tay Bridge and Double Chance, a horse that paid hunch betters well last year.

Sixty horses have been entered for the race, insuring a field of at least 20 starters.

Top Patterson-Chambers by Margin of 126.

By a decisive margin of 126 pins Canne and Green trimmed Patterson and Chambers in a special duckpin match last night on the alleys at Beaver, Pa., a neutral floor selected by the combatants.

The Green-Canne combine hung up a grand total of 1,514. The efforts of Patterson and Chambers netted 1,388. They rolled a five-game series.

Patterson rolled high single game score of 211, but Canne knocked the maples more consistently and finished with a series total of 795 and an average of 159. Green averaged 144, Patterson 149 and Chambers 129. The scores:

Patterson.....	118	138	133	144	211	744
Chambers.....	77	155	169	133	110	644

Canne.....	159	169	149	152	166	795
Green.....	119	151	141	179	129	719

Scorer—Howell.

EXAMS EASY ON LUTHERAN QUAD

SPRINGFIELD, Feb. 4.—Mid-year examinations at Wittenberg college have come and gone.

The basketball team and the survivors of the football season of 1925 have been practically untouched by the semi-annual examination twister that this season took 19 students out of college life.

Only a very few athletes from the freshman class were found so lacking in scholarship qualifications that they were dropped from the rolls.

Wittenberg has half of a basketball schedule to complete. Games still to be played are: Cincinnati there, Feb. 8; Miami there, Feb. 13; Wesleyan here, Feb. 17; Ohio Northern here, Feb. 20; Denison there, Feb. 25; Muskingum there, Feb. 27; Denison here, March 5; Wooster there, March 11.

Last Night's Fights

Neward, N. J.—George Ward, Elizabeth, got the popular decision over Jack Rappaport, South Orange, N. J., 12 rounds. Harry Dudley, California, knocked out Jack McFarland, fifth round.

Says Jack's All Right. Jimmy De Forrest, well known boxing authority, after a recent visit with the champion Jack Dempsey, came to bat with the assertion that the lad from Utah is capable of taking the measure of any of the so-called challengers. Says the long lay-up hasn't hurt Jack a bit.

Canada's exports last year were more than $150,000,000 larger than in 1924.

$10,000 Golf Game in Prospect

Sports fans around Miami, Fla., are excited over the prospect of seeing Leo Diegel, Canadian open champion, a winter "pro" there, play Abe Mitchell, British golf star, for a $10,000 purse put up by E. B. McLean, publisher and sportsman. Miami chamber of commerce has offered to pay Mitchell's expenses to and from this country.

NO TOURNEY FOR SALEM GIRLS

Red and Black Won't Compete in County Event.

SALEM, Feb. 4.—Salem High Girls will probably not enter the proposed county girls cage tourney in March.

High school authorities here believe that since Salem plays every leading county team at least once, and in several cases twice during the season, a county tourney is superfluous from the Red and Black angle.

Then, too, the county tourney, as tentatively planned, includes chiefly Class B schools, Salem, being a Class A school thinks it better that the Class B schools have their own tourney if they so care.

Columbiana was suggested as the place for the tourney at the recent meeting held in Lisbon. Since Salem is not entering, it may be that the Class B teams will ask permission to use the Salem gym as a neutral floor, as Columbiana will be one of the competing teams.

For the second straight year Salem's gym will be the scene of the annual county Class B boys tourney Feb. 26 and 27 because Salem's floor is a neutral one.

Melhorn's Break. Golfers the country over still are trying to figure out what Bill Melhorn was getting at at San Antonio just as the Texas open championship was nearing a finish. Of course he apologized to Bobby Cruikshank for making the unseemly and untimely remark that he did, but it surely was a terrible breach of greens etiquette.

Gold output of the South African mines is expected to be great this year.

Landis' Endorsement Is Blow At Johnson

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—One of our prominent citizens left his chin unguarded again yesterday, with the customary result that only the telltale (X) now marks the spot where the body was found. Imbued with the lofty purpose of starting another anti-Landis crusade, he rushed from his corner and led with his chin. The National League of Professional Baseball Clubs acted as honorary pallbearers. The one-punch knockout is a popular gesture with everybody but the gentleman it most concerns. The boys became quite exercised when our Mr. Dempsey dropped one over on funny Fred Fulton. But as to that, they are still talking in the Sunday schools about what David did to Goliath.

It remained, however, for the national league to establish the modern record at the expense of Byron Bancroft Johnson by recommending that Bryon's arch-irritant, Judge Landis, be retained for a period of ten years at the expiration of his $50,000 contract.

This meant the beginning and the end of another baseball war, tactically declared when Johnson turned up missing at the National league's golden jubilee dinner on Thursday night. He took this means of notifying Landis and baseball in general what he had in mind when the judge's contract ran out next year.

All the running out, now, probably will be done by Mr. Johnson. The summary reprisal exacted by the National league at once should prove the end of his Landis complex and the beginning of a new regime for bigger and better commissioners.

According to those in his confidence, the judge entertained some idea of stepping out from under when his term office expired. He probably will think better of it after receipt of the league's heartening message. It confesses a desire to pay him $50,000 a year for ten years and the judge is nothing, if not a good fellow. He'll take the $50,000.

Of course, it takes two to make an agreement and the American league happened to be a party of the second part. But with the rival league lined up solidly behind Landis, the Johnson outfit can do no less than follow. It might not feel, in toto, the same sentiments but its organization lacks the cohesion of the National and some of its magnates are disposed to sit on the fence, anyhow, when a controversy arises.

IRONDALE HIGH HERE TOMORROW

Irondale high school passers are priming for their clash here tomorrow night with the local high reserves in a preliminary to the Girard contest.

On the following Friday they are scheduled to tangle with the Chester high Reserves.

In a recent clash at Irondale, the team dropped a 33 to 17 decision to Salineville. Lance, Brown and Skaggs scored heavily for the visitors while Romick, Hicks and Ferguson made most of the points for Irondale. The preliminary between the girls' teams wound up in a 10-10 tie. The Irondale lassies exhibited superior teamwork but missed a lot of field goal chances.

Second—A card pass for two persons to the Ceramic theatre, motion picture shows, good for three months.
Third—A three month subscription for the Review-Tribune.

This contest was suggested, indirectly, by the forthcoming presentation of Paramount's "The American Venus," at the Ceramic theatre. This photoplay, starring Ernest Torrence, Ford Sterling, Esther Ralston, Lawrence Gray and other prominent players, was filmed at Atlantic City last summer during the national beauty and physical contest among the most beautiful girls from most of the leading cities. It features Miss Fay Lamphier, who was then chosen "Miss America," a committee of prominent American painters, sculptors, physicians and physical culture directors pronounced her the ideally proportioned young woman, with measurements far superior, in modern eyes, to the out-of-date classical proportions of the Venus de Milo.

Contest is for Physical Perfection.

The weight and measurements of Miss Lamphier accompany this article. Every girl or young woman of 15 years or over—there is no minimum—whose aim and proportions approach those of Miss Lamphier, is eligible to enter the "American Venus" contest. This is a competition for PHYSICAL PERFECTION, not beauty; but, if several contestants are tied at the finish, beauty will then be the deciding factor.

Here is what you have to do, girls, to enter the contest:

Angry Boy Blows Up Companion With Bomb

Friend Relieves Boy's Suffering
"My little boy has had trouble with his bronchial tubes since he was three. We tried all kinds of cough syrups and medicines without any relief. For ten weeks he was down, didn't get a night's sleep due to his cough. A friend gave me a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar and that night, after taking Foley's Honey and Tar, he slept all night," writes Mrs. Ruth Willard, 1524 Kappes Street, Indianapolis, Ind.
